German Drives For Czarist Capital, Caucasus Oil Are Turned Back.

(By Associated Press)

MOSCOW—The Red army, snapping back from its successful defense of Moscow, Leningrad and the Caucasus, is turning to a general offensive and is now fighting especially hard to restore the main Moscow-Leningrad connection through Klin, Soviet reports said today.

Pravda, Communist party organ, in a broadcast report, said Soviet troops had cut the Moscow-Leningrad road at one point and taken 42 settlements and 75 tanks in a single day.

The newspaper said troops which had retaken Solnetschnogorski 31 miles northwest of Moscow and east of Klin, were now throwing the Germans out of other localities and that the Nazi retreat was proceeding in disorder with many hundreds of dead and wounded being left behind. Yakhrona was recaptured five days ago, the account added.

The Tikhvin-Volkhov railway southeast of Leningrad already has been cleared of the Germans, Pradva said.

In one village in the Klin district Pravda said the Russians found a report from the commander of the 239th German infantry regiment showing that his unit had lost half of its remaining strength of 400 men in one day.

(In London an authoritative military source said the initiative appeared to have passed definitely to the Russians in the Moscow sector. It is clear that the Germans are not succeeding in readjusting their line because their plans are being constantly dis-

MAILING BANNED

Service to Germany, Italy, and Japan Suspended.

Still another of the long tentacles of war reached out to touch Mansfield today as Postmaster H. E. Homberger made public notices of official suspension of mail service to Germany, Italy, and Japan.

An order sent to all U. S. and territorial postoffices by Postmaster General Frank C. Walker stated that until further notice no mail matter originating within this country or its possessions shall be dispatched from here to its destination.

The order stated that places under jurisdiction of Japan also included in the ban are Marianne, Marshall and the Caroline Islands (mandates under the treaty of Versailles), and the leased territory of Kwantung. Territory under control of Japan is to be considered as including Manchuria and the occupied part of China.

OBSERVES BILL OF RIGHTS DAY

Mansfield Displays Flags as Schools Conduct Special Programs.

Mansfielders turned their attention today to the Bill of Rights, the great document that embodies the principles of American freedom, as the nation joined in the observance of the 150th anniversary of the document.

Hundreds of residents and business places displayed the flag and it waved in a stiff southwest breeze from all the city's flagpoles.

Pupils in Mansfield schools devoted special study to the Bill of Rights, comprising the first 10 amendments to the constitution, and its significance in these times when the nation is fighting to defend its freedom.

The day's ceremonies will be climaxed by President Roosevelt's talk over the major radio networks at 10:30 p. m. today. The anniversary program began when Gov. Herbert H. Lehman of New York spoke from the steps of the sub-treasury building in New York

Register Quickly, Plea Of Defense Committee

Chairman Urges Speed, Declaring First To Enroll Will Be First Chosen On Police, Fire Emergency Units.

Mansfield citizens, eager to aid in the city's civilian defense program, continued today to visit the six enrollment stations where they may receive official applications for enlistment in the auxiliary fire and police units and nurses aid corps soon to be established.

More than 50 applications were obtained by citizens within a few hours after enrollment started Saturday, and today the signed applications were beginning to come in. Twelve were mailed or brought in to Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, chairman of the Mansfield civilian defense commission.

More than 50 applications had been obtained at noon today at police headquarters, one of the five points where men may register for police or fire duty. Other citizens were visiting the four fire stations in the city for enrollment, and women interested in volunteering for the nurses aid corps were enrolling at the Red Cross offices.

Judge Kalbfleisch urged today that citizens move quickly to enlist in the auxiliary units. Applications received will be tabulated on the basis of the actual time they are turned in, which means that the first to enroll will be the first selected for service, he pointed out.

First tabulation of enrollments will be made by the committee tonight. A quota of 100 men is Today, its 125 citizens, though just as musical, found the name just a bit out of tune.

Substitute names have been suggested. Among them: Roosevelt.

HUNT 'TARZAN'

But Police Fail To Find Man Driving Around In Nude.

Mansfield police early yesterday scoured the western residential sections of the city for an over-ambitious Tarzan who was reported to have been driving around in the nude.

A woman started the search shortly after midnight when she called police headquarters to report she had seen the man in a car in the vicinity of Park avenue west and Linden road. Officers shivered at the thought of a nudist in the below-freezing weather and then looked for him for two hours without success.

They decided he must have acquired his courage by imbibing too freely, or he was just a plain mental case.

CONGRESS SET TO SPEED BILLS

Plans Quick Action on Draft, Naval Expansion and Extra Powers For President.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — A congress rapidly becoming accustomed to American participation in war geared itself today for swift action on bills extending the draft age limits, granting the president extraordinary control over government functions and authorizing a 30 per cent naval expansion.

These three measures topped the week's list of "must" legislation as both houses prepared to give final approval today to a $10,000,000,000 appropriations measure carrying funds for completing the equipment of an army of 2,000,000 men and obtaining critical supplies for an additional 1,200,000 men.

The selective service legislation, scheduled for house consideration Tuesday and senate action immediately thereafter, was designed to provide a co-ordinated increase in military manpower as quick as new equipment becomes available. It would require registration of all men from 19 through 44 years old for mili-

MANILA — United States bombers, resisting Japanese attempts to reinforce troops landed at Legaspi, on the southeastern tip of Luzon island 250 miles from Manila, heavily damaged two Japanese transports yesterday, U. S. army headquarters reported today.

Announcement of the new American successes followed by 24 hours an official bulletin declaring that during the first week of the war army bombers sank four Japanese transports and badly damaged three more off northern Luzon, where the invaders effected landings at several places.

Japanese air raiders, meanwhile, returned to the attack on Luzon, sweeping over the Manila area about noon (11 p. m. E. S. T. Sunday) and dropping bombs which a brief communique said fell in the vicinity of Nichols field.

The communique, issued at 4 p. m. (3 a. m. EST) said that enemy activities throughout the

Pound British Crown Colony From Sea, Air

Empire Troops Withdraw From Kowloon As Chinese Report Relief Assaults On Rear Of Invaders; U. S. Pilots Rescue 275 From Under Siege.

BULLETIN

SINGAPORE—(U.P.)—Imperial forces were reported today to have halted an attempted Japanese blitz sweep down the Malayan peninsula. Confidence was high that the forces will prove able to hold a strong line indefinitely despite withdrawals from exposed northwestern Kedah.

LONDON—The Japanese have pounded Hongkong from the land and air for the past two days as British forces on Kowloon peninsula, the colony's mainland section, fell back to defend Hongkong island, British sources declared today.

The withdrawal, they said, was ordered according to plan and "still is going on."

Japanese dispatches said Britain's defenses of Hongkong were crumbling under the shelling of siege guns on the mainland and incessant aerial bombardment. The fall of Britain's second most vital Far Eastern stronghold was declared to be only a matter of days.

One potential source of relief for the colony was a Chinese attack on the rear and flanks of the Japanese on the mainland but the British here said they had no information on that operation beyond Chungking advices that a fierce assault is in full swing against the Japanese in the Tamshui area, north of Hongkong.

Hongkong island rises steeply from the flat waterfront to the gun-studded heights of "the peak" overlooking the island city of Victoria and the Kowloon plains across about one mile of water.

The British said that they were using their lighter guns to defend Hongkong against attack from across the narrow channel but that their biggest guns—some of which have been described as 18-inchers—probably are mounted for use against sea attack and could not be used successfully against the Kowloon threat.

(A Reuters dispatch from Singapore at almost the same time said: "There now is no doubt here that Kowloon on the Chinese mainland opposite Hongkong is in Japanese hands.")

Frontline dispatches said fighting between Chinese and Japanese forces was going on at Pingshan and Tamshui, respectively eight and 21 miles north and northwest of the British crown colony.

(Although Chungking dispatches indicated the Chinese drive was a serious effort by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's troops to relieve the pressure on the great British base, the British radio said Singapore dispatches suggested the Chinese effort was more in the nature of guerrilla and sabotage warfare. CBS heard the broadcast.

Knox Gives FDR Details On Jap Back-Stab At Hawaii

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — First actual details of the circumstances of Japan's treacherous back-stab at Pearl Harbor were anticipated today as President Roosevelt received a full report from Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, just returned from the Pacific war area.

President Roosevelt goes on the radio at 10:45, E. S. T., tonight in connection with the 150th Bill of Rights commemoration. A second report from the chief executive on America's war position may be forthcoming at that time. It was quite possible that an official navy communique, on the basis of the Knox report, would be issued earlier.

Knox reached Washington by plane shortly after 9 o'clock Sunday evening. He went immediately to the White House and made a preliminary report to the commander-in-chief on the circumstances of the foul Japanese blow dealt to a portion of the U. S. Pacific fleet in Hawaiian waters on Sunday, Dec. 7.

Meanwhile, official Washington shook off the first realizing shock of total and devastating world war and proceeded to the grim business of putting into force measures that will affect the lives and pocketbooks of every citizen.

Labor spokesmen were preparing for a meeting Wednesday with representatives of industrial management to work out a voluntary agreement that will ban future strikes and lock-outs and put war production on a seven-day week working basis.

As a collateral move, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau was expected—with White House approval—to shortly renew his proposal that industrial profits be limited to six per cent.

Rep. Doughton (D.) N. C., chairman of the house ways and means committee, meanwhile called for drastic non-defense economies, and warned that congress must levy higher taxes "without dislocating our national economy" or "destroying free enterprise." He said that the "financial burdens of winning the war must be spread over a long period of time."

Christmas Basket Would Cheer This Worthy Family Of Six

Sickness—inability to work—savings wiped out.

These points are repeated over and over in the case histories of needy families on the records of the Give-a Christmas clearing house maintained by the Mansfield Community Fund.

Consider Case History No. 9:

"Sickness, an operation, big clinic and hospital bills played havoc with this family, wiping out their savings. The bread winner has worked hard and steadily for years, paying for a home. But between the depressions and a long, expensive illness the home was lost and the man will not be able to work again. A big cheery Christmas basket with dinner for six can be given to this family by someone with tact and understanding."

The Community Christmas sponsors—the News-Journal and the Junior Association of Commerce are now attempting to insure holiday dinners for 400 needy families of the city. Organizations and individuals have "adopted" approximately half this number of families, but only a short time remains to complete the task.

The committee is particularly anxious to avoid duplications, because when two or more baskets

County Red Cross Solicitors Start $30,000 Drive Today

Public solicitation to raise $30,000 as part of the American Red Cross plan to obtain not less than $50,000,000 for services to the armed forces and civilian relief, was started today by Richland county chapter of the Red Cross.

The campaign, directed by the fund-raising and public information committee that operates under the Disaster Preparedness and Relief program of the county chapter, will be conducted in much the same way as the 1941 Roll Call only recently completed.

day were confined entirely to the air.

Four Japanese fighter planes were shot down during yesterday's action off Legaspi, a communique declared.

The picture evoked by these succeeding announcements, coupled with reports of successes achieved by Netherlands submarines off Malaya, was one of heavy Japanese losses.

The Dutch announced yesterday from Batavia that their submarines, previously reported to have sunk four Japanese transports in the Gulf of Siam, also had sunk a Japanese tanker and a freighter in the same area.

The situation in general in the Philippines, which Lieut General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said Sunday was 'well in hand both on the ground and in the air," was described officially this morning as unchanged

Unofficial reports said that Japanese forces established around Vigan, on the Luzon west coast 200 miles north of Manila had sent out patrols during the week-end in an attempt to widen their foothold.

There was no mention, however, of further fighting at Lingayen, 100 miles northwest of Manila, where General MacArthur said yesterday that a Philippine army division had smashed a Japanese landing force, nor at Aparri in northermost Luzon, where the Jpanese also have landed troops.

American warplanes, however, were said to have made several attacks on the Aparri area to thwart Japanese attempts to establish an air base there.

There was no indication that the Japanese actually had been able to land more troops at Legaspi. Up to yesterday, army headquarters said, only a limited number of men had been put ashore there and these were reported under sharp attack from the air.

Japanese aerial activity over Luzon this morning was said to have been limited to a few sporadic raids.

At least 40 Japanese planes were officially reported shot down over the Philippines last week, during which the islands were the target of 14 major attacks.

Army quarters firmly reiterated that thus far the Japanese had not landed any parachute troops in the Philippines Unofficial reports to the contrary have been found to be false, these quarters said.

Japs Warn of Enemy Aircraft, Subs

TOKYO — (Official radio received by AP)—A joint communique of the army and navy sections of imperial headquarters warned Japanese today "against the lurking danger of enemy submarines" off Japan's island coasts and urged them to "prepare for a protracted war wherein hostile submarines and aircraft bombing will play a role"

It said land and sea defenses were prepared to meet any sudden attacks or enemy attempts to harass Japan by raiding her sea-borne commerce

Report Attack On U. S. Army Barracks

TOKYO — (Japanese Official News Agency Dispatches Recorded by United Press) — Japanese Imperial headquarters asserted today that Japanese units attacked American army headquarters at Tarlac, 70 miles northwest of Manila, and destroyed an army barracks

(The Tokyo claim did not state specifically but it appeared that the reference was to an air attack on Tarlac.)

Tarlac is on the main Lingayen-Manila railroad, 40 miles inland from the west Luzon port of Iba.

The communique said that in the Aparri sector on the north side of the island, Japanese planes had shot down a Curtiss plane and said 'Japanese troops are overcoming enemy resistance according to plan'

In another communique imperial headquarters asserted that Japanese troops had taken an extremely important point on the west coast of Malaya and were advancing rapidly

The Japanese had announced a full scale attack on Hongkong and claimed deep penetrations into Malaya as the imperial diet met for a two day extraordinary war session to hear speeches by government leaders and to vote a special $658,000 000 war credit.

A general offensive was launched against Hongkong by land sea and air at dawn yesterday after the British commander-in-chief had refused a Japanese demand for surrender

Manila Police Arrest

MANILA — (UP) — Philippines constabular operatives have arrested scores of key men in a suspected Japanese fifth column organization in Manila and surrounding areas during the week-end, it was understood today.

tary service, with 18 year olds and those from 45 through 64 listed for defense duties.

As the house military affairs committee prepared to meet today to consider the legislation, some members expressed the opinion it was not necessary at this time to reach below 21 years for selectees.

Selective service officials said they planned to begin drawing at once upon the 1,000,000-man reservoir already available in the age brackets up through 35 years old under the selective service act as it now stands. Up to 50,000 of these were expected to go to the navy and up to 10,000 to the marine corps.

Beyond that, plans were indefinite, but most legislators thought that the actual size of the army henceforth would depend chiefly on the equipment, housing and training facilities available

Committees of both houses prepared to give speedy approval to a bill delegating to the president sweeping war powers The measure would re-enact the so-called Overman act of the last war permitting the president to redistribute the functions of various government departments to gain the greatest efficiency in the prosecution of the war effort

The 'trading with the enemy" tion also would be revised, and the president would be permitted to suspend competitive bidding on contracts, waive performance bonds and amend contractual agreements

Relatives Get News of Safety of Mansfielder on Ship Claimed Sunk

The first definite word of reassurance came today concerning any of the eight Mansfield area youths known to have been aboard the two American battleships which the Japanese claimed to have sunk during the Hawaiian island fighting last week.

Friends and relatives, exceedingly apprehensive from the time of issuance of enemy claims that the Oklahoma and the West Virginia had been sunk, have been increasingly hopeful that the eight had escaped death because of the absence of any official notification.

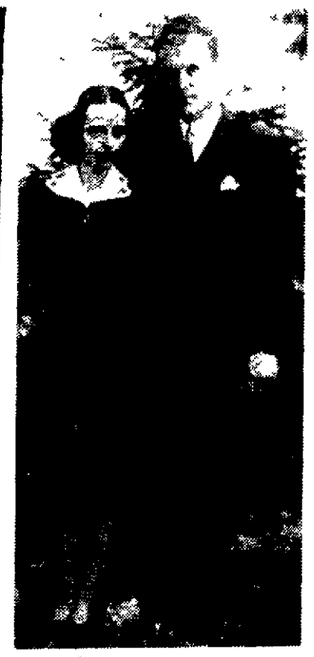
One of the group, Miss Lillian Bishop, of 114 Park avenue west, received definite word that her brother, John Bishop, sationed on the Oklahoma, is safe A telegram sent by another sister, Mrs S T. Springfield, of Siloam Springs, Ark., stated:

"Johnny sate and evidently feeling fine"

It was presumed that Mrs. Sprinfield had received either official notification from the navy department or a cablegram direct from the youth

Families and friends of the other seven youths were eagerly anticipating similar word today.

John Bishop, who is aboard the U. S. S. Oklahoma, is safe, according to word received here today by his sister, Miss Lillian Bishop.



Mr. and Mrs. George Lynch, both of Shelby, are safe and well at Honolulu, their parents have been advised.

Dwight McCready of Mansfield has been removed from navy band duty and has been assigned to active sea duty aboard a cruiser now patrolling west coast waters.

B. Rayford Moore, of the Great Lakes Naval Training School, is visiting in Mansfield on a nine-day furlough.

Mansfield Woman, Husband Safe

News also was received concerning the safety of a Mansfield woman, Mrs N. Carl Elder and her husband, Rev Elder, Presbyterian missionaries in Thailand A cablegram, received today by the Board of Foreign Missions of the Church in New York City, in response to an urgent cable for information, stated

"All 15 missionaries safe and well His Grace sufficient."

Word also was received by the church that 22 Presbyterian workers in Manila are safe and that mothers and children have been evacuated to Lagunda. Episcopal missionaries in occupied China and the Philippines have also reported their safety to the church.

that the offensive soon would sweep the British from the island of Hongkong, to which Japanese claim the British have withdrawn from Kowloon, a mile away on the mainland.)

American and Chinese pilots who braved bombs and artillery fire to land and take-off at the Hongkong airport ferried 215 persons from the city during the first two nights of the Japanese siege. Among the rescued were such notables as Madame Sun Yat-Sen, widow of the founder of the Chinese republic, Chinese Finance Minister H. H. Kung, and American and British members of the Chinese currency stabilization board.

Most of the passengers were set down 200 miles inland but some were flown clear to Chungking.

American pilots who participated in these flights included Frank L Higgs, Columbus, O.

In the fighting in Malaya, a British official said there had been a "slight withdrawal" of British troops as "very heavy fighting" progressed in the Kedah sector, northwest of Singapore.

Casualties on both sides may be severe, he said

He said the Japanese had landed on the east side of the Kra isthmus and had crossed it to enter Burma. Their success in cutting the Malay peninsula, he acknowledged, would affect air communication between Burma and Singapore because of airfields involved.

(The Japanese landing thus was from the Gulf of Siam above the landings directed at Singapore. At that point, the Kra isthmus which links Malava with the Asiatic mainland, is only some 50 miles wide

(The vicinity of the Japanese landings is about 500 airline miles south of Rangoon, Burma's chief port and the Indian ocean gateway for China's supplies over the Burma road It is around the crook of the Gulf of Martaban, however, and therefore considerable farther by land from the Japanese position.)

The British informant said he had no information about the progress of the Japanese in Burma

A Japanese communique here claimed the capture of "an important air base in western Malaya" but there were no details to amplify this.

Trench War Rages On Hongkong Island

SINGAPORE, Straits Settlements — (UP) — British Empire troops from three continents, including Canadians, Scots and Indians, are fighting in trenches at Hongkong against overwhelming numbers of Japanese land, air and sea fighters after a defiant refusal by their commander to surrender, official dispatches said today.

Mile by mile, the imperial forces had retreated through the mainland sector of Kowloon under plans made in 1938 by which the great stand was planned to be made in strong trenches on Hongkong island.

Now the British forces are in these trenches, backed by 2,000 civilian volunteers.

MARINES STILL HOLD OUTPOST

Keep Off Japs 150 Hours In Heroic Stand on Isolated Mid-Pacific Isle.

shot down. Damage was inconsequential."

"The marines on Wake island continue to resist."

Last week the navy revealed that the marines at Wake had sunk by air action a light Japanese cruiser and a destroyer.

The terse communiques reveal little of the historic battle which the marines at Wake have been staking for almost a week. They are situated in the most isolated section of the Pacific, thousands of miles from the nearest inhabited island.

There was little doubt here that when the complete story can be told—if there are any survivors to tell the story—it will take its place in future history books along side other valiant last stands.

Officials here were cheered by even the brief reports from Wake, but declined to speculate or the chances of continued successful resistance. The navy has not revealed in any of its communiques whether help is being sent to the garrison.

Navy communique No. 17 also revealed the enemy submarines are known to be operating in the Hawaiian area

"Vigorous attacks are being made against them," was the only detail the navy revealed.

It was the first instance of Japanese activity in that area by the army or navy here since the "sneak" attack on Pearl Harbor a week ago yesterday.

You're proud to present pipe-smokers with this big one-pound tin of mild, rich-tasting Prince Albert Smoking Tobacco. Magnificent in its Christmas jacket ...just right in a pipe!
CAMEL
PRINCE ALBERT
Season's Greetings

CAMELS

There's an added pleasure in giving Camels at Christmas. You know your gift will be so genuinely welcome. More smokers prefer Camels than any other cigarette. And that preference holds for men in the Army, the Navy, the Marines, and the Coast Guard, too! So remember those lads in uniform ... remember all the cigarette smokers on your list ... with the cigarette of costlier tobaccos—Camels. Choice of the two holiday packages above.

PRINCE ALBERT

If he smokes a pipe, a big, long-lasting pound of cool-burning Prince Albert spells smoking pleasure 'way into the New Year ... at camp, on ship, at home. Prince Albert is choice tobacco, "no-bite" treated for mildness and "crimp cut." It's the National Joy Smoke. There's no other tobacco like it. Your local dealer has two handsome Prince Albert "specials"... the pound tin (above) or the special glass humidor jar. Get yours today.

U. S. BOMBERS SMASH 2 MORE JAP TRANSPORTS

Bring Toll of Invader Ships Sunk To Six; Four Planes Downed In Raid.

day were confined entirely to the air.

Four Japanese fighter planes were shot down during yesterday's action off Legaspi, a communique declared.

The picture evoked by these succeeding announcements, coupled with reports of successes achieved by Netherlands submarines off Malaya, was one of heavy Japanese losses.

The Dutch announced yesterday from Batavia that their submarines, previously reported to have sunk four Japanese transports in the Gulf of Siam, also had sunk a Japanese tanker and a freighter in the same area.

The situation in general in the Philippines, which Lieut. General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said Sunday was "well in hand both on the ground and in the air," was described officially this morning as unchanged.

Unofficial reports said that Japanese forces established around Vigan, on the Luzon west coast 200 miles north of Manila, had sent out patrols during the week-end in an attempt to widen their foothold.

There was no mention, however, of further fighting at Lingayen, 100 miles northwest of Manila, where General MacArthur said yesterday that a Philippine army division had smashed a Japanese landing force, nor at Aparri in northermost Luzon, where the Jpanese also have landed troops.

American warplanes, however, were said to have made several attacks on the Aparri area to thwart Japanese attempts to establish an air base there.

There was no indication that the Japanese actually had been able to land more troops at Legaspi. Up to yesterday, army headquarters said, only a limited number of men had been put ashore there and these were reported under sharp attack from the air.

Japanese aerial activity over Luzon this morning was said to have been limited to a few sporadic raids.

At least 40 Japanese planes were officially reported shot down over the Philippines last week, during which the islands were the target of 14 major attacks.

Army quarters firmly reiterated that thus far the Japanese had not landed any parachute troops in the Philippines Unofficial reports to the contrary have been found to be false, these quarters said.

Japs Warn of Enemy Aircraft, Subs

TOKYO — (Official radio received by AP)—A joint communique of the army and navy sections of imperial headquarters warned Japanese today "against the lurking danger of enemy submarines" off Japan's island coasts and urged them to "prepare for a protracted war wherein hostile submarines and aircraft bombing will play a role."

It said land and sea defenses were prepared to meet any sudden attacks or enemy attempts to harass Japan by raiding her sea-borne commerce

Report Attack On U. S. Army Barracks

TOKYO — (Japanese Official News Agency Dispatches Recorded by United Press) — Japanese Imperial headquarters asserted today that Japanese units attacked American army headquarters at Tarlac, 70 miles northwest of Manila, and destroyed an army barracks.

(The Tokyo claim did not state specifically but it appeared that the reference was to an air attack on Tarlac.)

Tarlac is on the main Lingayen-Manila railroad, 40 miles inland from the west Luzon port of Iba.

The communique said that in the Aparri sector on the north side of the island, Japanese planes had shot down a Curtiss plane and said "Japanese troops are overcoming enemy resistance according to plan."

In another communique imperial headquarters asserted that Japanese troops had taken an extremely important point on the west coast of Malaya and were advancing rapidly

The Japanese had announced a full scale attack on Hongkong and claimed deep penetrations in to Malaya as the imperial diet met for a two day extraordinary war session to hear speeches by government leaders and to vote a special $638,000,000 war credit

A general offensive was launched against Hongkong by land, sea and air at dawn yesterday after the British commander-in-chief had refused a Japanese demand for surrender.

Manila Police Arrest

MANILA — (UP) — Philippines constabular operatives have arrested scores of key men in a suspected Japanese fifth column organization in Manila and surrounding areas during the week-end, it was understood today

Most of the men arrested are members of the Ganap organization formerly known as the Sakdalista, whose chief Benigno Ramos, is now serving a prison term for subversive activities

CALL FOR UNITY

Wheeler and Norris Appeal for 'United Front' Against Axis.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — Sens. Burton K. Wheeler, D., Mont., and George W. Norris, Ind., Nebr., today appealed for a "united front" by all western hemisphere republics in the war against the Axis powers

Wheeler, who led the congressional non-interventionist bloc in its fight against administration foreign policies, commended Latin American nations for their support of the United States' war effort.

Because of the heavy load of business caused by the present emergency, the Western Union offices here today announced discontinuance of the practice of informing telephone calls of the correct time during early morning hours. Business has increased 35 per cent above normal due to the war, Manager R. K. Clark said.

The Mansfield Liederkranz announced adoption of a resolution pledging the organization's "whole hearted loyalty and allegiance to the United States of America and full and complete support to President Roosevelt in his efforts to bring this state of war to a successful conclusion for the United States of America." A copy of the resolution signed by President Paul Wolf and Secretary J. P. Schmidt of the society, was sent to President Roosevelt.

Like Mansfield, other cities throughout Ohio were busy today recruiting and training civilian volunteers for emergency duty in the event of war disaster. Each municipality worked out its own system for handling fires, blackouts, air raids, first aid, and other duties.

tary service, with 18 year olds and those from 45 through 64 listed for defense duties.

As the house military affairs committee prepared to meet today to consider the legislation, some members expressed the opinion it was not necessary at this time to reach below 21 years for selectees.

Selective service officials said they planned to begin drawing at once upon the 1,000,000-man reservoir already available in the age brackets up through 35 years old under the selective service act as it now stands. Up to 50,000 of these were expected to go to the navy and up to 10,000 to the marine corps.

Beyond that, plans were indefinite but most legislators thought that the actual size of the army henceforth would depend chiefly on the equipment, housing and training facilities available.

Committees of both houses prepared to give speedy approval to a bill delegating to the president sweeping war powers. The measure would re-enact the so-called Overman act of the last war, permitting the president to redistribute the functions of various government departments to gain the greatest efficiency in the prosecution of the war effort

The "trading with the enemy" tion also would be revived, and the president would be permitted to suspend competitive bidding on contracts, waive performance bonds and amend contractual agreements.

Relatives Get News of Safety of Mansfielder on Ship Claimed Sunk

The first definite word of reassurance came today concerning any of the eight Mansfield area youths known to have been aboard the two American battleships which the Japanese claimed to have sunk during the Hawaiian island fighting last week.

Friends and relatives, exceedingly apprehensive from the time of issuance of enemy claims that the Oklahoma and the West Virginia had been sunk, have been increasingly hopeful that the eight had escaped death because of the absence of any official notification.

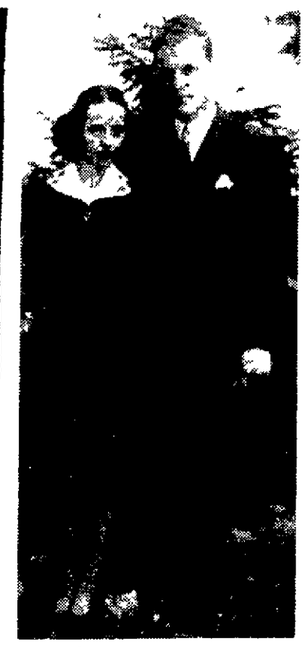
One of the group, Miss Lillian Bishop, of 114 Park avenue west, received definite word that her brother, John Bishp, sationed on the Oklahoma, is safe. A telegram sent by another sister, Mrs S. T. Springfield, of Siloam Springs, Ark., stated:

"Johnny safe and evidently feeling fine."

It was presumed that Mrs. Sprinfield had received either official notification from the navy department or a cablegram direct from the youth.

Families and friends of the other seven youths yere eagerly anticipating similar word today.

John Bishop, who is aboard the U. S. S. Oklahoma, is safe, according to word received here today by his sister, Miss Lillian Bishop.



Mr. and Mrs. George Lynch, both of Shelby, are safe and well at Honolulu, their parents have been advised.

Dwight McCready of Mansfield has been removed from navy band duty and has been assigned to active sea duty aboard a cruiser now patrolling west coast waters.

B. Rayford Moore, of the Great Lakes Naval Training School, is visiting in Mansfield on a nine-day furlough.

Mansfield Woman, Husband Safe

News also was received concerning the safety of a Mansfield woman, Mrs. N. Carl Elder and her husband, Rev. Elder, Presbyterian missionaries in Thailand. A cablegram, received today by the Board of Foreign Missions of the Church in New York City, in response to an urgent cable for information stated.

"All 15 missionaries safe and well. His Grace sufficient."

Word also was received by the church that 22 Presbyterian workers in Manila are safe and that mothers and children have been evacuated to Lagunda Episcopal missionaries in occupied China and the Philippines have also reported their safety to the church.

Navy Office To Be On 24-Hour Day

The Naval recruiting office in the postoffice will remain open 24 hours a day henceforth, Recruiting Officer W. G. Cox announced today. The office has been flooded with applications since the outbreak of the war. Nine applications were examined and accepted Saturday. They are: William F. Mack, Bucyrus, Carl W. Fockler, Ashland, Othel D. Miller, Galion, Robert L. Kilkenny, Mt. Vernon; George L. Klepser, Martin W. Leapley, and Cleland J. Wingart, and Thaddeus V. Hobson, Galion.

Two others, Richard L. Zimmerman of 484 South Diamond street and Roy Shaffer of Shiloh, were accepted yesterday.

A group of approximately 19 will leave for Cleveland for final induction on Wednesday.

Spends Nine-Day Furlough Here

B. Rayford Moore, 23, stationed at the Great Lakes Naval Training School, is spending his nine-day furlough in Mansfield. He is visiting at the home of his fiancee's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Adams, 182 West Fourth street. He is a brother of Howard Moore, of 356 West Third street, and another brother, Thomas Moore, is stationed at Camp Shelby.

Wires Dad He's Doing Patrol Work

Dwight McCready former Mansfield high school band member, and son of Berlyn McCready, of 777 Highland avenue telephoned his father from San Diego, Cal., on Sunday, that he is now on a cruiser patrolling west coast waters. Until recently he was playing in the navy band, but he has been transferred from the band to sea duty. He has been in the navy since June, and graduated from the Fleet School of Music at San Diego

Navy Issues Call For Radio Men

The Navy department at Chicago today issued a call for amateur radio operators and radio repair and service men. It was explained that the existing state of war necessities that they be procured within 60 days for duty as technicians in connection with RADAR, the Navy's new secret device for detecting the approach of enemy aircraft and submarines

Parolees Offered Full Freedom

The state of Ohio has offered its paroled prisoners an opportunity to win full freedom by fighting in the nation's armed forces The state pardon and parole commission announced that it was suspending paroles of "first offenders" to permit them to enter the service and that a good war record would bring eventual freedom. More than a score of former Mansfield Reformatory inmates already have been released from parole to join the fighting forces, it was announced

Shelby Parents Get Word From Son

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, 32 Mack avenue, Shelby, received a letter Saturday from their son Roland E. Smith, petty seaman aboard the U. S. S. Northampton. The letter was passed by Navy censor, and in it Smith merely states that he is well. The Smiths are unable to state whether the letter was written before or after the attack. Smith enlisted in training at the Great Lakes station last Jan. 17, 1941. He has been stationed on the Northampton since March

that the offensive soon would sweep the British from the island of Hongkong, to which Japanese claim the British have withdrawn from Kowloon, a mile away on the mainland.)

American and Chinese pilots who braved bombs and artillery fire to land and take-off at the Hongkong airport ferried 275 persons from the city during the first two nights of the Japanese siege. Among the rescued were such notables as Madame Sun Yat-Sen, widow of the founder of the Chinese republic, Chinese Finance Minister H. H. Kung, and American and British members of the Chinese currency stabilization board.

Most of the passengers were set down 200 miles inland but some were flown clear to Chungking

American pilots who participated in these flights included Frank L. Higgs, Columbus, O.

In the fighting in Malaya, a British official said there had been a "slight withdrawal" of British troops as "very heavy fighting" progressed in the Kedah sector, northwest of Singapore.

Casualties on both sides may be severe, he said.

He said the Japanese had landed on the east side of the Kra isthmus and had crossed it to enter Burma. Their success in cutting the Malay peninsula, he acknowledged, would affect air communication between Burma and Singapore because of airfields involved.

(The Japanese landing thus was from the Gulf of Siam above the landings directed at Singapore. At that point, the Kra isthmus, which links Malaya with the Asiatic mainland, is only some 50 miles wide.

(The vicinity of the Japanese landings is about 500 airline miles south of Rangoon, Burma's chief port and the Indian ocean gateway for China's supplies over the Burma road. It is around the crook of the Gulf of Martaban, however, and therefore considerable farther by land from the Japanese position.)

The British informant said he had no information about the progress of the Japanese in Burma

A Japanese communique here claimed the capture of "an important air base in western Malaya" but there were no details to amplify this.

Trench War Rages On Hongkong Island

SINGAPORE, Straits Settlements — (UP) — British Empire troops from three continents, including Canadians, Scots and Indians, are fighting in trenches at Hongkong against overwhelming numbers of Japanese land, air and sea fighters after a defiant refusal by their commander to surrender, official dispatches said today.

Mile by mile, the imperial forces had retreated through the mainland sector of Kowloon under plans made in 1938 by which the great stand was planned to be made in strong trenches on Hongkong island.

Now the British forces are in these trenches, backed by 2,000 civilian volunteers.

OBSERVES BILL OF RIGHTS DAY

City, site of the first capital of the United States.

Late this afternoon, Vice President Henry Wallace was scheduled to visit Gunston Hall, Fairfax, Va., home of George Mason, who drew up the Bill of Rights. Speaking at ceremonies in Washington last night, Wendell Berge, assistant attorney general, armed that "an individual responsibility rests upon us as citizens of a country where free speech is guaranteed not to abuse that freedom in time of national danger."

President Roosevelt's proclamation calling for the ceremonies today, read in part:

"Those who have enjoyed such privileges as we enjoy forget in time that men have died to win them. They come in time to take these rights for granted and to assume their protection is assured. We, however, who have seen these privileges lost in other continents and other countries can now appreciate their meaning to those people who enjoyed them once and now no longer can. We understand in some measure what their loss can mean."

shot down. Damage was inconsequential."

"The marines on Wake island continue to resist."

Last week the navy revealed that the marines at Wake had sunk by air action a light Japanese cruiser and a destroyer.

The terse communiques reveal little of the historic battle which the marines at Wake have been staking for almost a week. They are situated in the most isolated section of the Pacific, thousands of miles from the nearest inhabited island.

There was little doubt here that when the complete story can be told—if there are any survivors to tell the story—it will take its place in future history books along side other valiant last stands.

Officials here were cheered by even the brief reports from Wake, but declined to speculate on the chances of continued successful resistance. The navy has not revealed in any of its communiques whether help is being sent to the garrison.

Navy communique No. 17 also revealed the enemy submarines are known to be operating in the Hawaiian area.

"Vigorous attacks are being made against them," was the only detail the navy revealed.

It was the first instance of Japanese activity in that area by the army or navy here since the "sneak" attack on Pearl Harbor a week ago yesterday.

Re-Direct Thoughts To Christmas

ANOTHER few days—surprisingly few—and Christmas will be here. The week through which Americans have just passed has been one of surprise, horror, anguish, indignation and determination.

Thoughts of people everywhere were concentrated on the abrupt plunge of this nation into war—and of what that war will mean.

Mansfielders have seen the movement of troops through the city and the reality of participation in war has been impressed in other ways—notably in the quickly vitalized activities of the civilian defense committee.

Now would be a good time for the people of this community, and elsewhere over the country, to take a sheet from the notebook of the people of England, where the actualities of war have already been experienced, in the matter of calm acceptance of unavoidable conditions and efforts to pursue as nearly normal course as possible.

While there can be no mental blackout of the war and its requirements, there will be urgent need for relaxation, diversion, entertainment, home, school and group activities which will serve to relieve tension and better equip everyone for the stern work that lies ahead.

For this week and next it appears best that thoughts, insofar as posible, be re-directed to holiday channels, to completing gift buying, mailing packages and greeting cards, and otherwise following a customary course, rather than evidencing a feeling of depression, worry or lack of confidence.

A special effort is being made to send Christmas gifts to young men in camps or elsewhere in military service. The same spirit that inspires this remembrance should also extend to friends and loved ones at home—especially in a year when the possibility for a truly American Christmas is still assured.

Gift merchandise in great variety is available and there is money with which to buy it.

Buy Defense Stamps and Bonds—but also buy and give Christmas presents.

Hemispheric Bonds Tightened

THE UNITED STATES and Mexico have been at odds, off and on, during the past thirty years, but differences were petty as compared with the threat now hanging over the entire Western Hemisphere. It is pleasant and reassuring to learn of the big parade the other day in Mexico City, with 50,000 workers marching, singing and carrying placards saying "The future of Mexico is with the United States and Latin America."

There have been announcements, too, in most of the other southern republics, showing the same attitude. Even those who do not show so much enthusiasm as Mexico still wish us well and are preparing to co-operate with us in important ways. The forthcoming conference of representatives of all the Latin-American countries is expected to tighten the bonds already established.

It looks now as if the whole Western Hemisphere will stand together for sanity and decency against the forces of barbarism.

No Horn-Honking In Memphis

SO THAT the subject may not be entirely forgotten, it may merit mention that Memphis, Tennessee, with 300,000 population, has banned automobile horn-blowing anywhere in the city—and is getting away with it.

The anti horn-blowing ordinance was part of an "all-out" safety drive in Memphis, which is credited with having saved ten lives so far this year and is expected to cut the city's traffic toll by more than 60 per cent for the year.

City authorities and safety officials in Memphis agree that horn-blowing is a nuisance rather than a necessity, and the ordinance against it carries a stiff fine and is rigidly enforced.

Some Memphis motorists have had their horns disconnected, saying the temptation to blow a horn in a traffic jam is always great, and a horn-blower in Memphis is now regarded as a freak.

While there has been a noticeable decrease in unnecessary horn-blowing in Mansfield since some of the worst offenders were given to understand that this practice classifies them as mentally subnormal, there is still a fine opportunity for Councilman George C. Kyle to further popularize himself by continuing his effort to ban unnecessary horn-blowing on city streets.

Modern civilization cannot continue to exist half savage and half civilized.

READ AGAIN YOUR BILL OF RIGHTS

(First Ten Amendments to the United States Constitution)

AMENDMENT 1

FREEDOM OF SPEECH, PRESS, AND RELIGION. Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances.

AMENDMENT 2

RIGHT TO KEEP AND BEAR ARMS. A well-regulated Militia, being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms, shall not be infringed.

Why Was Panama Canal Spared?

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—Just why the Japanese did not bomb the Panama Canal locks on the Sunday morning when they made such successful attacks on Pearl Harbor is a question of high strategy which is causing considerable study here.

There is the possibility that they knew they could not get away with it, but this is not a possibility which the navy likes to think about. Even to a layman who has never been to Panama, a study of the map will show that it would have been just as easy for a Japanese airplane carrier to have slipped up near the coast of Nicaragua and sent its planes by night to the canal locks as it was to catch the fleet napping at Pearl Harbor. Bearing in mind, of course, that there was peace—Japanese diplomats were in Washington dragging out conversations, etc.

So that if the argument is made that they could not have gotten away with an attack on the canal the question would arise why did they get away with it at Pearl Harbor?

ASSUMING then that the Japanese deliberately ignored this opportunity, then it becomes of interest WHY they made this decision. This is especially true when it becomes apparent that the Japanese did not make the decision because they could not spare the airplane carrier and the planes which they needed in their other attacks.

The admitted fact that a large squadron of Jap planes came very close to San Francisco would seem to prove that there must have been a carrier in that region of the Pacific ocean. Then why did they have the raid on San Francisco planned instead of one on the Panama Canal?

It was not a question of time and distance. On the Sunday morning of the attack on Pearl Harbor Japanese submarines were operating less than 1,000 miles off San Francisco. Now submarines are very slow as compared to airplane carriers. Even when they are running on the surface their speed is far less than that of a carrier, which is always a fast ship. So there was plenty of time at the moment the decision was made to send the submarines and carriers for the attacks to have brought down to Nicaragua that carrier which launched the planes near San Francisco.

WHICH presents the very serious question: are the Japanese worried about the Panama Canal? Would cutting that canal be of tremendous advantage to them?

This is a poser, because all of our military and naval strategy for years—since the Spanish war days—has been based on the idea that keeping this canal open was of the essence of importance to the U. S. navy.

If the Japanese admirals do not agree with the importance of this so far as Japanese strategy is concerned, the knowledge would be a terrific shock to United States admirals—and to congress which so recently appropriated huge sums for another set of locks well removed from the present locks.

One theory is that in view of modern conditions the navy might not DARE transit a battleship through the canal. The locking process requires its position to be definitely spotted for a period which, though fairly brief, might expose it to dangers of various sorts.

Timely Editorial

Still a Mystery.

Recognition by The Journal of the American Medical Association of the value of massage in treating infantile paralysis is the deserved triumph of its originator, an obscure Australian nurse.

The very simplicity of the nurse's treatment is said to have aroused the doubts of the medical profession, now thoroughly convinced. But the fact that a middle-aged nurse, guided by her own common sense, has succeeded in reversing what has hitherto been accepted medical practice is an indication, not so much of the conservatism of organized medicine as it is of the essential mysteriousness of this still-unconquered childhood scourge.

Until this disease is analyzed and charted as so many others have been, the medical profession will rightly continue to question discoveries and experiments, and the miraculously right guess of the lay man and woman will continue to be as valuable as the trial-and-error research of scientists.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

Why It Is Called "U-Boat?"

"U-boat" is the English form of a German abbreviation.

The equivalent of our word for submarine, in German, is Unterssee-Boot under-sea boat.

The Germans contracted Unterssee-Boot to U-Boot, which, anglicised, is U-boat.

During the last World War, the Germans identified their submarines by number—U-10, U-25—from which practice, the expression U-boat gained currency in the English language.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

State Department Fiddled While Japan Prepared for Sneak Attack

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—It is now possible to tell the tragic inside story of the diplomatic negotiations which Secretary Hull was conducting while the Japanese were preparing their secret attack on Pearl Harbor and the United States.

The real story goes back to early August when Prince Konoye sent a cable to the president asking that they meet at a conference to discuss Pacific problems. When this was received in the state department, Maxwell Hamilton, chief of the department's Far Eastern division, proposed that the United States negotiate.

However, a group of his advisers in the Far Eastern division, who had been in Japan recently, were convinced that everything Japan was doing pointed to war against the United States. They were convinced that any Japanese diplomatic negotiations were mere bluff for the purpose of consuming time while Japan finished preparations.

This group of non-appeasers, however, was not consulted regarding appeasement conversations. So finally they drafted a two-page memorandum warning that diplomatic negotiations would lead to disaster. For the sake of their own records, they wanted it made clear that they were opposed to appeasement. Also they wanted to go over Max Hamilton's head to Secretary Hull.

Those who signed this warning were Cabot Coville, Joseph M. Jones, Frank A. Schuler, John R. Davies, Herbert Fales and E. Paul Tenney.

U. S. Cliveden Set.

IMMEDIATELY they were summoned before Hamilton, the chief of the Far Eastern Division. Hamilton and his wife both are Buchmanites, and like many of the British Buchmanites who belonged to the Cliveden Set, they were strong for appeasement.

Hamilton bawled out his subordinates and told them they had no business interfering. But they insisted that their memorandum be taken direct to Secretary Hull. And Cabot Coville, in protest against appeasement, resigned.

When his resignation came to the attention of Assistant Secretary Berle, however, Berle refused to accept it, and Coville was transferred to the Philippines where he is today. The chief results of his efforts to oppose appeasement are that today he is being subjected to the bombing attacks which he, himself, warned were coming.

Frank Schuler, another of the rebels, was shortly transferred to a tiny post in the British Virgin Islands.

These men were all hardened experts on the Far East who had lived there and who knew Japan. They were not youngsters. However, their warning memorandum, though it finally reached the hands of Secretary Hull, made no impression. A few weeks later, special envoy Kurusu was sent to Washington with a big blare of Tokyo trumpets about peace, and the negotiations continued.

Koreans Warn Hull.

ABOUT this time, Secretary Hull was receiving letters from Koreans in the United States warning that Japan was preparing to attack the United States. Koreans, being a subject race, hate their Japanese conquerors. Frequently operating as servants, they have maintained an amazing underground intelligence system in Japan.

On Oct. 28, 1941, Kilsoo K. Haan, a Korean who had been a member of the Japanese consular service, wrote Mr. Hull reporting a meeting of the Black Dragon Society (secret fascist order of the Japanese military) on Aug. 26 in which Foreign Minister Hirota revealed "a total war preparation to meet the armed forces of the United States."

"He (Hirota) also spoke of Premier Tojo giving orders to complete the mounting of guns and rush supplies to the Marshall and Caroline group by November 1941. Hirota and others in the meeting freely expressed . . . the most suitable time to wage war with America as December 1941 or February 1942."

Mr. Haan was introduced to Secretarw Hull by Senator Gillette of Iowa, so his letter did not come from an unknown crackpot. In fact, Gillette thought so highly of the Korean's information that he proposed a senate investigation of Japanese activities, but was discouraged by the state department.

Despite this, Secretary Hull's conversations with Envoy Kurusu began shortly thereafter, and continued in very earnest vein. Mr. Hull apparently believed that something could be worked out with the Japanese, and at one point he and his state department advisers actually thought that an agreement was just around the corner.

Churchill Objects.

THIS was on Nov. 24 and 25. Mr. Kurusu suddenly seemed willing to talk a three-month commercial truce, and the state department worked out an involved formula whereby no more Japanese troops were to enter Indo-China, but were to remain in China, and we were to resume the sale of gasoline, oil, scrap iron and other raw materials for "civilian use."

At the very time Mr. Hull was discussing this plan with Kurusu, his goverment in Tokyo is now revealed as even then already launching its plans for attacking Hawaii.

However, Secretary Hull was so anxious to rush this truce to a conclusion that he did not want to give Lord Halifax time to cable the plan to London for Churchill's approval—even though the British and Australians were sitting in on the conversations.

Lord Halifax insisted, however, and when Churchill got a cabled report on the plan he hit the ceiling. He did not think the Japanese would keep faith, and argued that it merely gave the Japanese more time to increase their armament. Simultaneously the plan leaked out to the Chinese, and the Chinese ambassador delivered a personal protest from General Chiang Kai-shek to the president.

In view of the Churchill and Chinese objections, Secretary Hull suddenly withdrew his proposal of a three-month truce and fell back on the traditional American policy of the Open Door in China plus withdrawal of all Japanese troops.

If President Roosevelt is right that the Japanese had begun preparing for the Hawaii attack well in advance, there seems no question that none of Mr. Hull's proposals, whether appeasement or the Open Door policy, would have changed the course of the Japanese war lords.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — The biggest worry of official Washington in these early days of war is fear of widespread hysteria throughout the nation.

That was the chief reason President Roosevelt took the air the other night—to try to create calm in a people who were giving every evidence of letting war jitters lead them into panic.

THE Seattle episode of a mob smashing lighted windows was one outburst. The near panic on the New York Stock Exchange was another. The blackouts and bomb scares on the west and east coasts were all accomplished with evidences of overwrought nerves.

Even in congress, where not so many hours before, war had been voted with calm deliberation, some senators and representatives went verbally berserk. It was these reports, scattered, but steadily piling up on the desks of government officials that gave them even greater alarm than the reports of serious damage to our fleet in the Pacific.

These officials already are trying to formulate rules and regulations by which the people, self-imposing them, can avoid the hysteria and resulting confusion which the enemy would so much like to see spreading over the land.

AMONG these, the first is pay no attention to rumor. The theater of war is a thousand miles and more away. Communications are disrupted. News will come back slowly and will even then have to be filtered to be certain that none is given to the enemy by being made public.

Naturally, this leaves the door wide open for all sorts of concoctions that have little or no basis in fact. And the worst and most damaging of the fabrications will be planted by the enemy.

Federal officials say it is not impossible that American cities will be bombed and that every city should have its precautionary plans drawn and ready for instant action. BUT, they continue, without enemy bases nearby, there can be no large-scale bombing in this phase of the war.

While there has been no concrete evidence of Fifth Column activity yet, almost any of the cases of hysteria reported could have been touched off by enemies within.

HOW to keep the people on guard for Fifth Column activity without setting off a witch hunt is another one that is putting gray hairs in many Washington heads.

The prime activity of the Fifth Columnists, before the armed forces arrive is to create distrust in one's government and one's institutions; to set up race hatreds; to align class against class; to turn every one against his neighbor; to throw the country into confusion.

According to investigators, the chief instrument of the Fifth Columnist in this country for a while now at least will be talk—just plain conversation that will have as its objective those things mentioned in the paragraph above. And that is the kind of conversation that will have to be guarded against.

HERE again, rumor will play a big part—rumor by word of mouth, in letters, and perhaps in circulars and folders.

There is one certain way of getting around the Fifth Columnists. Insist on facts. Demand proof and don't believe anything until you have it.

That, at least, is what some government officials here say will cure the war jitters and keep them from returning. If they can be held in check for a few weeks, nation-wide plans — probably through the Office of Civilian Defense—will be worked out to keep them there for the duration.

A Farmer's Diary

'Applebutter Jake'

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I'LL NEVER forget the first time I saw "Applebutter Jake." I happened to be in the village general store when a grizzled loafer looked out a small-paned window and remarked that Jake was coming. All the men smiled—presently the door opened and in came an old fellow with a white beard, who carried a cane, seemingly from habit more than from necessity.

He had been tall——now his shoulders drooped. His old round face wore a faintly puzzled look, as he eyed the ring of loafers keenly. Although he shivered, he did not approach the circle about the stove, but bought a pair of leather-plated gloves, a pound of coffee and a lantern wick.

"Can't I sell you a new suit today, Jake?" asked the man behind the counter.

"No—reckon not," said Jake. "I'm in too much of a hurry. It's gettin' dark and the girls are waitin'." He looked down at his overalls and denim jumper, both neatly patched and patched until little of the original material was left.

"Made any applebutter yet this fall?" piped up someone.

"Oh yes—enough, I reckon. We ain't aimin' to sell any," said Jake, picking up his basket.

I saw him leave and heard him crank his model T and drive away, in company with two bonneted women. Then I inquired "Who is this 'Applebutter Jake,' and how did he get that name?"

"He lives down toward Mud Hollow with his two old maid sisters," one of the men beside the stove told me. "He's peculiar—and he's still got the first dime he ever earned. Every year for a long time Jake and 'the girls' made applebutter to sell in the city. They used up all the windfalls and wormy apples—for he didn't spray his trees. Last year they'd nearly finished a big bilin' and Jake was stirrin' for all get out—you know the stuff burns easy, toward the last. His two sisters Jane and Susie had come in, and they was all aworkin' hard and fast, when Jake looked up and saw the kitchen roof to the house was afire!

"Right quick, he poked the long handled stirrer into Jane's hand, and started on the run for the house. Both Jane and Susie—they're fat and sixty-five—started after him. The old man got to the house door and saw them followin'—and although he could hear the fire asnappin' on the roof, he yelled—"Go back, you fools and stir that applebutter! It'll burn and won't be fit to eat!"

So Susie and Jane went back, and kept on stirrin.' Yes, the house burned down. But after the excitement was over, they dished out the applebutter and they do claim 'twas extra good and brung a fancy price. Anyway they've got a new little house, built with insurance money. Applebutter Jake's no fool."

CHAPTER XVII

"Too much so to be slaving for old Si Higgins on a pittance. I've little regard for the head of our local counting house. He counts too closely."

"I see. I think I may sound out Lennon. I'm sure I can do it in a way that will not involve you. After all, you and I are not supposed to be friends. Where does he live? I suppose it would be better if I called at his home."

Andre gave him directions.

"Thanks a lot, Delaine. I appreciate the suggestion. I do need some help badly. And I promise you I will be very circumspect. I must be on my way, but I will accept your invitation to that party before very long."

"I hope you will. You'll almost always find us at home."

Andre attempted to inject complete heartiness into his final words but a slight apprehension followed. Perhaps he had committed an error in making any mention of Wige. He realized all was not well between the latter and Carol and was shrewd enough to guess why. A desire to further the boy's material prospects had prompted the suggestion, but it might have been better had he asked Carol's advice first. On the other hand, it would save her some embarrassment later if she were able to say she knew nothing whatever about it. It was possible, too, that Dennison was unaware of Wige's interest in Carol.

"May turn into a pretty kettle of fish," Andre muttered as he prepared to get to work at his presser. "Too late now." He dismissed the matter with a shrug.

That evening found the three Lennons sitting in their dining room. Wige and Charlie were playing off a checker tie while Amanda busied herself with a bit of crocheting. Also some bits of unsolicited advice for her oldest son.

"Have you seen Carol lately?" she asked.

"Why, yes." Wige attempted to concentrate on a move.

"I hear she's got a car now."

"She told me so."

"It's a wonder she wouldn't drive out and show it to us."

"She's still working. I don't think she knows how to drive, anyway."

"Aren't you going to show her how?"

"If she asks me to"

"My patience, Wilbur Lennon. What if that girl has got some money? Is that any reason to act like you didn't know her? And after going with her all this time. Goodness knows you've been wanting to marry her and I know well enough she'd take you . . . now. You'd not have to worry about being able to support her. That's sure."

"That's a good enough reason," Wige murmured. "There's another king for you, Chuckie. You've got me with that two-for-one trade."

"I heard it pretty straight that Andy Delaine was tricky — the way he got that money. But they say he gave most of it to Carol. Maybe that was so the law couldn't touch him. Did you hear anything like that?"

"No."

"Well, it's a good thing he did because he'd fritter it away in no time. Have you any idea how much Carol did get from him?"

"I know what she deposited. We're not allowed to tell things like that."

"Humph. I heard it was well up in the thousands. I should think Carol would be glad to have somebody take the responsibility for her. She can't know much about handling money." Amanda sighed. "That's certainly somebody on the front porch steps. I can't imagine who'd be coming this time of the night."

"I'll see," Wige told her. "Chuckie's got me almost licked."

"No, I'll go." Amanda laid her work on the table and rose.

Both boys caught the sound of voices at the outer door. Then Mrs. Lennon appeared to report:

"There's a man to see you, Wilbur. I put him in the parlor and turned on the light. I guess it's warm enough in there."

"Who is it, Mother?" Wige lifted his coat from the back of his chair and slipped into it.

"I never saw him that I know of."

As Wige was leaving, Amanda warned him in a low voice.

"I don't doubt he's got something to sell. You be careful and don't let him talk you into anything foolish."

"Good evening, Mr. Lennon. This is an unpardonable hour to be calling . . . later than I thought. But I saw a light burning downstairs and took a chance."

"That's all right."

"Then you're not busy for a few moments?"

"No. I was playing checkers with my kid brother and being beaten. Sit down."

Wige was trying to think of some logical reason for Dennison's coming to see him. But no satisfactory conclusion presented itself.

"Rather chilly out, isn't it?" he asked, uncomfortably aware that his caller was observing him intently.

Andre Delaine's suggestion that Wilbur Lennon might be the right man to select as Chester Dennison's assistant in Jericho appealed to that energetic executive. He already had sized up Mr. Higgins of the bank as an exacting and fault-finding employer. If Lennon had satisfied the old gentleman for several years he must be both dependable and accurate. But it wouldn't hurt to get another check. Delaine might have some personal reason for recommending the young fellow. With that in mind, Chester mounted the stairs to Doctor Silverthorne's office after he had eaten a late supper. The doctor was at his desk writing.

"Hello!" he greeted Dennison. "Picked up another nail?"

"No, sir. I'm on a quest for information this time, if you don't mind."

"Depends what it is. Go ahead and ask."

Chester outlined his need briefly.

"It occurred to me," he added, "that you probably know everybody in town. Possibly you could suggest some young man who might be capable and looking for a job. This is confidential of course. That is, if you care to mention any names."

"Um. You're right about my knowing most of the young people here. Ushered a lot of them into this world. Let me think." He removed his spectacles and started tugging gently at his beard. "There's only one boy here I'd recommend unqualifiedly, Mr. Dennison. It's young Lennon over at the bank. A good boy and a good worker."

"I have met him. Perhaps he wouldn't care to make a change."

"He'd be a fool if he didn't," the doctor observed dryly. "Provided always that the change would mean a chance to advance and that the job would last. I'd like to see him get what they call a break."

"Why? If you don't mind."

"Because he has a mother to support and a younger brother who's crippled. I know it keeps Wige busy making ends meet a good deal of the time. Like the rest of us."

"Perhaps the pill business will pick up, too," Chester smiled. "We hope to have a lot of prospective patients before long."

"I need them," the doctor admitted. "If you decide to talk to Wige I'll hold you at your word to keep my name out of it. I don't care to be in his boss' black book, if I'm not there already."

"Don't worry on that score," his caller assured him. "I can handle the old gentleman. And I very much appreciate what you have told me."

"It won't cost you anything."

When Dennison found himself facing Wige later, he did not mention the object of his errand at once, but spoke casually of various matters in an attempt to break down his host's slight reserve.

"How's everything at the bank these days?" he inquired finally.

"Pretty good. We're busier than we used to be."

"I suppose so. I know our contractor is putting quite a little business through your place and I suppose you're getting some personal accounts as well. Pretty much routine, I imagine. Do you like finance and banking?"

"I've never tried anything else." Wige was still on his guard.

"And of course you are wondering all this time what brought me out here," Chester observed pleasantly. "I don't know whether you will be interested in my errand. Now he was using the approach he had outlined. "Of course you know that our people are putting up a large plant here. Confidentially, it may prove to be our main one in time. That is why we are going in for permanent construction all the way through. Lawhead stands high in the aviation industry. We're comparatively young, but growing . . . have enough business in sight for several years. Naturally the bulk of our employes here will be technical men. On the other hand, we'll have a large force of non-mechanics, office workers and the like. That's in the future, but a very near future."

"Yes, sir." Dennison had paused as though expecting some reply.

"Just now, I'm extremely busy as contact man....main office, contractors and the government. I need some help locally and, so far, no one has been sent to me. Would you be interested in a proposition, Mr. Lennon?"

Wige blinked at the suddenness of the query, but his innate caution enabled him to answer:

"I had not thought of making a change, Mr. Dennison. I've been in the bank for a number of years and I suppose my position is safe. That means a good deal." Then, with a bluntness that almost surprised himself, he asked: "Would you mind telling me who suggested my name to you?"

"Not at all," Dennison smiled. He had been expecting that. "I'm the party. You see, I've been in the bank frequently and I think I'm fairly good in sizing up men. I noticed first that you always were courteous and had an air of capability about you. You impressed me as more efficient than the average small-town man. In fact, I said as much to Mr. Higgins one day and he spoke very well of you. Naturally I did not tell him I had designs on his force. I really didn't at the time." Chester's smile was partly in admiration of his account. The Higgins incident was pure fabrication, but there was little likelihood that Lennon would check it. No doubt he was considerably in awe of the old curmudgeon. "Of course," he added, "I might not be able to make you a proposition that would be sufficiently attractive as I have no idea of what you may be making. I couldn't give you more than forty a week to start. After that, it would depend on you. There are chances for rapid promotion with our people just now ...for men who make good."

MARGARET BLACK WEDS MERRILL W. MANZ, JR.

Surprise Ceremony Sunday Afternoon Unites Prominent Mansfield Couple; Vows Exchanged At Home of Mrs. J. A. Rigby, Aunt of Bride.

A SURPRISE wedding, announcement of which will be of interest to their many Mansfield friends, was that of Miss Margaret Black, daughter of Mrs. William G. Black, 560 Marion avenue, and the late Mr. Black, and Merrill Wiley Manz, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Manz, 580 Woodland road. The ceremony took place at 4:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon in the lovely home of Mrs. J. A. Rigby, aunt of the bride, at Balgreen farm on the Marion avenue road.

Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, read the marriage service in the presence of the immediate families. Vows were exchanged before the fireplace which was attractively decorated for the occasion. A large wreath was suspended from the ceiling and graduated electric candles had been placed on the mantel. Greenery and large baskets of white chrysanthemums completed the floral arrangement. Lighted tapers in tall brass candlesticks at each side of the fireplace furnished illumination.

The bride was given in marriage by her cousin, Henry B. Rigby. Maid of honor for her sister was Miss Mary Louise Black. Robert Skiles, of Shelby, served as best man for Mr. Manz, a former classmate and fraternity brother.

For her wedding Miss Black was attired in a street length dress of white wool, bodice and yoke of which were fashioned with an all-over braided pattern. She had a matching turban and a corsage of pale lavender orchids. Her only jewelry was a double-strand necklace of pearls, gift from the bridegroom. A real lace handkerchief that had been carried by Mrs. Manz at her wedding, was carried by Miss Black. The maid of honor was wearing a defense blue frock trimmed in silver. Her shoulder corsage was of pink roses.

Immediately after the ceremony wedding supper was served at a long table attractively centered with a large bouquet of white chrysanthemums. There was a large, white wedding cake. Later, Mr. and Mrs. Manz left for Alexandria, Va. Mrs. Manz was graduated from Abbott Academy at Andover, Mass., and received her bachelor of arts degree at Ashland college. She is music teacher at the West Fifth street school. A graduate of Kenyon college at Gambier, the bridegroom is stationed at 218 General hospital, Fort Belvoir, Va.

'Ugly Duckling' Tobacco Makes Soap and Varnish.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. —(AP)— Tobacco "ugly duckling"—unmarketable and low-quality grades—may yet stretch into the money.

The University of Kentucky reported that after a year and half of research it found this type of leaf could be developed into commercial products, such as varnish, soap, insecticide, fiber board and paper bags.

Couple Observes Golden Wedding In California

Invitations have been issued at Marysville, Calif., for a reception on Sunday, Dec. 21, from 2 to 5 p. m., honoring Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Williams, former residents of Mansfield, on their golden wedding anniversary, and Mr. and Mrs. George W. Williams, on the occasion of their silver wedding anniversary.

On Dec. 24, 1891, Mr. B. M. Williams of Mansfield and Miss Mary Almeda Hibner of Reddick, Ill., were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents. They established their first home at 103 Vennum avenue, and he was employed at the Wagner Hardware company. He later entered the transfer and draying business. He has brothers and sisters residing in this locality, one being Frank Williams of the transfer and storage company of that name. After moving from Mansfield in 1908 they lived in western Ohio, near Rockford, where they owned a farm until 1926, when they moved to Yuba City, Calif., in the Sacramento valley. The Williams' entire family consists of two sons, Howard and George, three grandchildren and one great grandchild.

On Dec. 24, 1916, their youngest son, George W. Williams and Miss Leona Margaret Petry, both of Rockford, were united in marriage in the Methodist church at Delphos, O. After a year at Rockford they moved to the Sacramento valley in California where they have since resided, and he has been engaged in the life insurance business for the past 12 years. Their only daughter, Barbara, is attending college in Sacramento.

Loveless Life Like Garden Without Sun

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

In my mail a day or so ago I received a letter from a young girl of eighteen, who wrote, "I'm going to be sensible when I plan my life." She goes on:

"I'm expecting to be happy and independent and successful and have a good time too. No losing my head over any selfish boy. No sleepless nights wondering why he didn't telephone. I don't intend to keep house and raise a family on next to nothing a year. I want peace and comfort in my life. And the only way to accomplish this is by doing without love."

The girl who wrote this is so young that she's still able to speak of love as a mere trifle. Almost as if love were something that a hard-headed girl is better off without.

She has seen girls suffer through love, and the men who occasioned the suffering haven't seemed glorious or heroic. So she has decided it isn't worth while. If a girl is not in love, my correspondent feels, she can sleep more regularly, work more steadily and, in many cases, she is spared a good deal of misery. Very well, then, she says, let's do without love.

It sounds very simple, doesn't it? For a moment you are tempted to believe that a girl who is planning her emotional budget, so to speak, for the years to come, can say, "So much friendship, so much family affection, so much devotion to business or profession. But not a trace of love."

However, there are two difficulties in the way. One is that not more than one girl in a hundred is sufficiently hard of head and cold of temperament to succeed in keeping love out of her life, whatever her youthful plans may be. It would be simple for a girl to do without some luxury, if she made up her mind to do it. But what woman can control the sudden sweet surging of love into her heart?

The second difficulty is that none of us can afford to do without love. A woman who has never loved, or never known herself to be beloved, is an incomplete creature. The radiance of love, even if it proves to be a radiance that doesn't last, is indispensable to all of us. Love is, in fact, the life-giving element.

Would you plan a garden without sunshine? Would you dream of heating a house without fuel? It's quite as possible, I should say, as to lead a happy and successful life from which love has been totally left out. Love is the very staff of life. It might also be said that we live by loving.

We know that happy married love doesn't come to every woman. And that somebody who needs loving—a mother or child or a needy friend—is pretty sure to be within the reach of all of us. Still, the normal woman is the happy wife and mother—the woman who has joyously budded and blossomed and borne fruit, who gives and receives love, and who thrives on the happy exchange.

There's always a lot of hardship, anxiety, and suffering in life. It is true that a girl who wants a life free from disturbances will have to think twice before she accepts love. The thrilling happiness of marriage and motherhood aren't to be had for nothing.

My advice is not to avoid love, but to acquire good sense and self-control, so that you can tell true love from false and a worthy lover from an unworthy one. Don't let love find you unprepared.

Unhappiness often results when a girl isn't grown-up enough to handle her own love affair. Learn all you can as to how to welcome love into your life. You will only be deceiving yourselves if you imagine that love is a thing that can be done without.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have been going steady with a young lady for three years and became engaged at Christmas, at which time I gave her a diamond ring. We had intended to be married in August, but as we seem to quarrel every time we meet I became discouraged. I think she has lost all affection for me.

Her excuse is that she wants to settle down and have a home of our own. For the past month she has not worn her ring at all and when I questioned her about it, she claims to have injured her hand.

I love her and she says she loves me, and always writes or calls up after our arguments to say she's sorry. She wants to talk of marriage and a home, but I get so discouraged over our constant quarreling that I can't look forward to a happy marriage.

I have been married before, but she is the only girl I've met that I can care for and love. Do you think she will change?

F. J. S.

If you let any more grass grow under your feet in that engagement you're likely to lose the girl altogether. You've known her for three years, been engaged since Christmas. To her way of thinking the engagement has been unduly protracted. She wants to marry and settle down. Why don't you ask her to name the day?

PLAYFUL PUSS PATTERN 410

This quilt, Playful Puss, will delight you in the making and captivate a kiddie completely in the using! And puss is just one patch—easy to applique. Alternating the material adds interest to the quilt. Pattern 410 contains diagram of block; accurate pattern pieces; directions for making quilt; diagram of quilt; yardages.

Send ten cents in coin for this pattern to The Mansfield News-Journal, Needlecraft Dept. 82 Eighth Avenue, New York, N. Y. Write plainly pattern number, your name and address.

The smart woman has learned how practical one good shirtwaister frock can be—it will go anywhere with casual grace. She's learned that Marian Martin shirtwaisters are the best-fitting yet the easiest to make! Pattern 9767 has a stunning one-button closing in front; and tiny shoulder yokes in the bodice for a soft effect. They're cut in one with the back. Don't you like the trim effect of a set-in belt? The front skirt panel is graceful too—it makes this frock comfortable to walk in. With the Sew Chart to guide you, make one frock all of one fabric, with the new three-quarter sleeves; another version with long sleeves and a contrast collar! A soft herringbone tweed would be chic.

Pattern 9767 may be ordered only in misses' and women's sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 2⅞ yards 54 inch fabric and ½ yard contrast.

Send fifteen cents in coins for this Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address and style number.

Send your order to The Mansfield News-Journal, Pattern Department, 232 W. 18th St., New York, N. Y.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I suppose my eyes mirrored the frightened protest I was ashamed to voice, for my father suddenly put a caressing hand upon my shoulder.

"Please remember that I understand fully what a hard and distasteful job I am giving you," he said tenderly. "Be sure that I would not give it to you if I could see any other way out of it.

"Don't, Father!" I said, abased that he should be apologizing for something he had every right to ask of me, not only as his daughter but as a member of his organization. "I understand everything, and I am truly ashamed of being a 'bad soldier'."

"You never could be that, Darling," he said, bending his head and kissing me tenderly.

Madge Closely Guarded.

"I'm going to try to prove to you that I can be a good one," I told him, loosening my arms and sitting erect as the driver swerved the armored car toward the open space for cars in front of the Lansfield.

"Wait here," my father told the driver crisply. "Wilson, will you go first, please?"

One of the guards, who had no trace of a weapon showing but who, I was sure, was heavily armed, rose from his seat and alighted from the car in what appeared to be one movement. He looked sharply up and down the street, and scrutinized the entrance of the hotel, before giving my father a laconic "Okay."

My father then alighted and gave me his hand.

"Come with us, Wilson," he said, and the man accompanied us to the door of my suite, then withdrew, with my father, a few feet to one side of the door, while I knocked, first lightly, then more loudly upon it.

Mary Is Cautious.

Mary's sleepy voice came to my ears just as I was beginning to get nervously anxious over the silence.

"Just a second!" she called, and it was little more than that before her voice came again, close to the door.

"Who is it?" she asked, and I gave an involuntary nod of approval at her caution, so unlike impetuous Mary. Evidently my father's strictures finally had taken effect.

"It is I, Auntie Madge," I said, "and Grandpa Spencer."

"You'll have to wait a minute then before I open the door," she said, but my father spoke quickly.

"I'm not coming in, Mary," he said. "I'm leaving, directly. I've spoken to my daughter. She will tell you when I have gone."

He stepepd to my side, and gave me a hurried parting message.

"I'm going back to the Underwoods," he said. "I'll be there, or where they can get me quickly, all day. Telephone me whenever you wish to see me, and I will be right over. Goodbye."

He turned, with a beckoning finger to Wilson, and the two men walked away. I knocked again at the door, and Mary threw it open instantly.

"If I were Mrs. Tiger," I told her, "I should exclaim that 'you are a sight for sore eyes'."

Mary Suspects.

She was indeed a lovely picture as she stood there in delicately flowered silk pajamas, her face rose-tinted with slumber, her eyes rested and starry, and her glorious hair tumbled about her head.

She answered me with a rueful laugh, and gestered apologetically toward her hair.

"I must be!" she said scornfully. "But that isn't important, while I imagine your errand is. Grandpa Spencer and an armed guard—yes, I saw him through the crack of the door and hope he didn't see me—don't escort lovely ladies on purely social calls, you know.

"I suppose"—her face darkened—"he wants you to see that I get to work pronto on that humble pie he expects me to eat for Stephen Redfield."

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, December 16.

PERPLEXITY and complications may be presaged from the ruling planetary configurations. These are quite contradictory with the promise of some very definite progress, with a general trend upward on business, sustained by the good will of large corporations, secret bodies, employers and superiors which may eventually overrule the opposition and stubborn obstacles manipulated by elders, non-progressives as well as by strangers or others holding antagonistic or erratic ideas. This may react upon the health.

Those whose birthday it is may be called upon to iron out some definite antagonism or stubborn opposition, mainly from elders, old institutions or from strangers who may be erratic or unconventional in their ideas. However, those in authority, superiors and influential personages may prove cooperative and give acceleration to very promising business and professional programs. The health should not be permitted to interfere through nervous reaction toward menacing conditions.

A child born on this day should have much enterprise, ability and ambition, qualities needed to combat or compose opposition and obstruction.

Public Use Of School Buildings

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

The average school building in the United States is dark at night and used only several hours a day for five days a week. Why have all the shops, laboratories, swimming pools and gymnasia been idle most of the time and the playgrounds locked or guarded against use most hours of the week the year around?

Thanks to the defense program, many laboratories and shops in high schools are now being used 24 hours a day. Here and there some other school buildings have been open at night for classes of adults and for recreational activities for youths as well as grownups, and young people have been attracted to the public school building for dances and other parties under wholesome supervision.

Aid for Civic Groups.

Such use of public school buildings is still woefully limited in the average community throughout the United States, however. One finds some towns and cities in which child welfare groups, other civic groups, even Parent Teacher Associations, have to pay rental for the use of the public school building—a building erected and operated with public funds. These civic groups are very important in promoting child welfare and should be given every aid in their work.

Wider Educational View.

Perhaps the chief reason why our public schools are not more widely used as centers of education and recreation for youths and adults has been our narrow concept of education. Many adults, even leaders in education, don't think of wholesome recreation as belonging to good education. I wonder how many think of recreation for the entire community as essential. Show me a community with a good program for adult education, including wide opportunities for recreation for youths and adults, and I will show you a community whose public school buildings are in almost constant use day and night for six days a week.

Community Centers.

Within the last year, Mrs. Myers and I have visited and studied a number of such communities, among them being Flint, Michigan, Milwaukee, Wisconsin and the Parker School District (industrial area) outside Greenville, South Carolina.

Recently we visited in some smaller cities and towns which are building or planning to build a community center. Other communities with a vision for wider opportunities in recreation and education for their youths and adults should get in touch with the office of the National Recreation Association, at 315 Fourth Avenue, New York City. This is a non-profit organization of experts whose services are available at little or no cost, to any community.

More than three billion pounds of barley, corn, rye and rice, 150 million pounds of sugar and 163 million gallons of molasses went into making of alcoholic beverages in U. S. in 1939.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

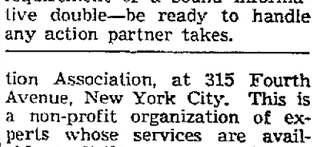
"The Authority on Authorities"

THREE KINDS OF DOUBLES

IF THERE is one type of hand on which you should practically never make an informatory double, asking for a takeout—a two-suiter—how many kinds are there on which a double should be made? Generally speaking, there are three, one-suiters, three-suiters and four-suiters, granting that the necessary amount of strength is held. There are several subsidiary types under each heading.



All of those hands are of about minimum strength for a double of 1-Diamond. Some players would require a trifle more in some cases. Number 1, 2 and 3 are the normal three-suiter type. No. 4 is the same, except that one of the three suits is the suit which is doubled. Number 5 is the one-suiter type. Regardless of the response, the doubler will bid spades next. No. 6 is a different one-suiter type. If the response is hearts, the doubler will shoot into 3-No Trumps instead of bidding clubs.

No. 7 is a kind of hand on which many players would prefer to bid 1-No Trump, as the diamonds are stopped. If this hand doubles and West cheaply bids hearts, North may not be strong enough to show stoppers by doubling, yet good enough to bid 2-No Trumps over 2-Hearts if his partner had first called 1-No Trump. No. 8 is sound for a double, as No Trumps can be bid on the next turn, if necessary, with all suits stopped.

The main feature of all of these hands is that the doubler is prepared to do something satisfactory, no matter what his partner's response may be. That is the main requirement of a sound informative double—be ready to handle any action partner takes.

Broil Oysters In Barbecue For Change

By BETSY NEWMAN

IN A previous article I extolled the excellent food elements contained in oysters. They may be cooked in many ways, but barbecued oysters are delicious and to most of us this is a rather unusual way of cooking and serving them.

Today's Menu.

Barbecued Oysters
Baked Sweet Potatoes
Cole Slaw Buttered Beets
Pickles Tapioca Custard
Coffee or Tea

Barbecued Oysters.

3 dozen large oysters
Bread crumbs
½ lb. becon, sliced thin
Paprika

Wash oyster shells thoroughly, open oysters, discarding the flatter shell. Sepaarte oysters from curved shell, but let each remain loosely in shell. Cover oysters with bread crumbs and season with paprika, cover each oyster with bacon, place, in their shells, in one layer under broiler flame until bacon is cooked through. Serve in shells.

Tapioca Custard.

1 teaspoon lemon extract or same amount of grated lemon rind
5 tablespoons tapioca
4 cups milk
½ cup sugar
3 eggs

Cook tapioca and milk until tapioca is soft and transparent. Beat eggs, add sugar, then pour part of tapioca mixture into eggs, blend well, add remaining tapioca mixture and blend well, add lemon extract, turn into baking dish and bake until set.

Santa and the WHITE ROSE

Chapter Thirteen

CARL'S ARROW STRIKES THE WITCH

CARL rode a short distance the next morning when he noticed an old man beside a well.

"Sir," shouted Carl at the old man, "I am in a hurry, but can I help you draw up the water?"

"That you can," said the old man, "and if your horse is strong you can give me a lift."

"That I will," said Carl. He jumped down from his horse, drew a bucket of water, and both he and the old man had a cool drink. Then Carl mounted his horse and helped the old man up behind him.

"Are you going into the next kingdom?" asked the old man.

"That I am," said Carl. "There is a witch abroad who is burning the crops. I hope to catch her."

H-m-m," said the old man. His face broke into a pleased smile. But Carl couldn't see that, of course. You see, it was Santa Claus who was riding with Carl. But he couldn't tell Carl because it was best Carl make his own plans without any help.

That night Carl and Santa crossed a wide bridge over a deep river into the next kingdom where Princess Hildur lived. They slept in the first farm house they saw. Before they went to bed the former told them all the crops were dying and many people were hungry. Santa sat silently and carved a wooden horse for the farmer's small son.

Santa told no one who he was except the small boy, and the boy promised to keep his secret. The next morning the boy gave Santa a pocketful of ginger cookies.

That morning Carl and Santa rode along an hour before they met anyone. Then Carl saw a young man in a field beside the road. He shouted, "Ho, friend! What news of the witch?"

The young man shouted back, "The fields are burning west of here. No one has seen her, but she must be there. I am trying to protect our land."

So Carl galloped ahead and turned left on the first road.

Finally over the third hill Carl saw rolling clouds of smoke. "There she must be, old father," Carl called back to Santa.

"Be careful, son," Santa called back. But Carl galloped all the harder. They came to a part of the road where wheat fields were burning on both sides. Sparks flew in their faces, and suddenly the horse dug his hoofs into the ground, threw up his fore legs and refused to go any farther.

Carl laughed and turned the horse back to a safer place. He hopped off and helped Santa down.

"What are you going to do?" asked Santa.

"Why, if I can't ride I'll walk," said Carl. "You stay here until I come back."

So Santa tied the big horse to a tree and sat down by the road where he picked a handful of dried grasses and began to weave a doll's hammock.

Carl walked down the road, through the rolling clouds of smoke, watching sharply to left and right. Suddenly he saw a tiny, old woman darting along between the rows of wheat. As she ran red flames sprang up.

"There she is," said Carl. He fitted an arrow into his bow and shot. The arrow went straight through the old woman. She started as she felt the arrow, but she only laughed and ran on, disappearing in the wheat field.

"What now?" thought Carl. "She can't be hurt by arrows."

He felt very discouraged.

Just then in King Harald's castle something happened that would help Carl. The King took down that magic pipe Santa had given him, and said to it, "Now, if you have any power to help, I need it."

TOMORROW: The witch is captured.

That night Carl and Santa crossed into the next kingdom.

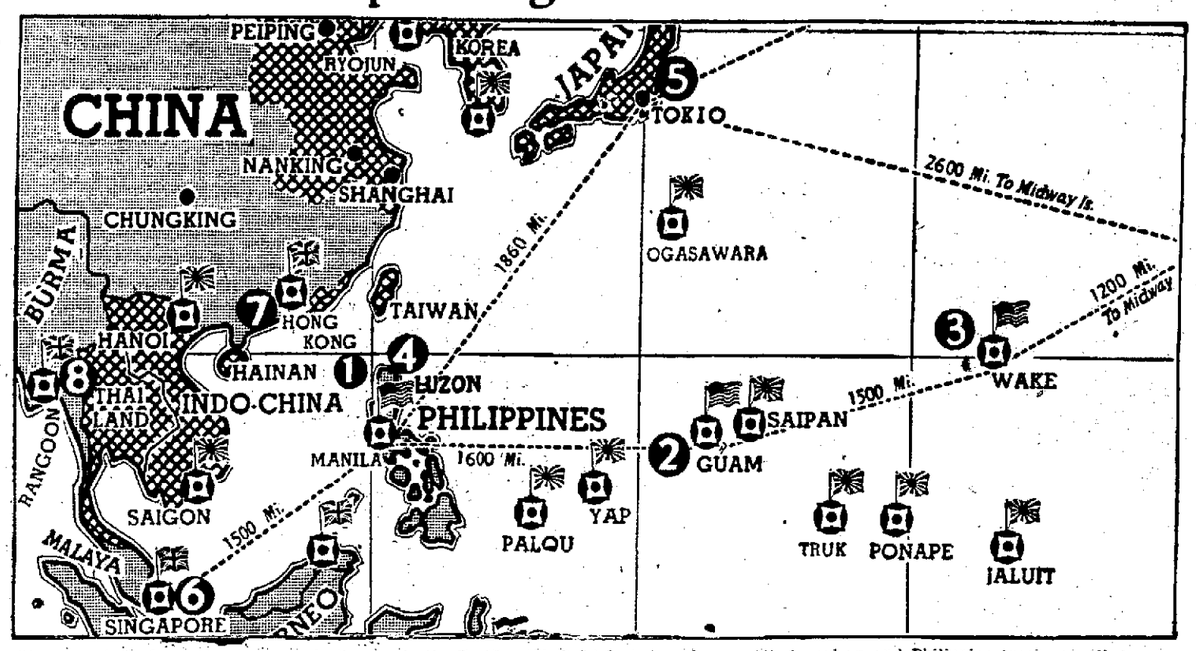
The Spreading War in the Pacific



This map shows latest developments in the war in the Pacific. (1) One Japanese battleship was sunk and another crippled in the battle of the Philippines. (2) About 350 American workers were reported captured by Jap forces at Guam. (3) U. S. Marines were making a heroic stand on strategic Wake Island, capture of which was claimed by Japan in first day of war. (4) American and Philippine troops repelled mass invasion of Luzon with withering fire. (5) Tokio ordered blackout. (6) Netherlands troops arrived to aid British at Singapore. (7) Jap divisions trying to reach Hong Kong were attacked by Chinese troops. (8) British rushed reinforcements to Rangoon. (Central Press)

They Want to Fight the Japs

This group of young Americans responding to the call for volunteers in the crisis caused by Japan's declaration of war on the U. S. are shown, at the break of day, lined up outside the Army Building in New York City, waiting for a chance to enlist.

Baby Sets a Precedent

Frolicking on its mothers' back is the first black leopard ever born in the Bronx Zoo, offspring of Noite (the father) and Nochas, black leopards from the Malaya, where war is now raging. The youngster is a brown black, now, but soon will have the silky, jet black coat of its parents. Cute—from a distance.

Speaking for the U. S. at Hawaii

A Regular Army garrison protecting the Hawaiian Islands, is shown firing a small field piece. Ease with which these weapons can be moved to any point to repel invasion attempts makes them exceptionally useful in protection of the vital Pacific base. (Central Press)

Hero of Aparri

Lieut. Boyd D. Wagner

C. P. Phonephoto

Lieut. Boyd D. Wagner, hero of the war in the Philippines, is officially credited with downing two planes in a violent dog fight and destroying twelve planes on the ground, despite heavy fire. He was with the squadron attacking the Japanese air base at Aparri, on the northern tip of Luzon.

The Babe Plays Santa Claus

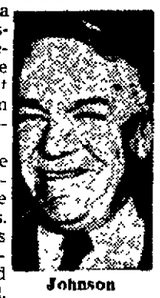
GEN. JOHNSON:

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON—"Hitler's flaming action is the most fateful news in years. It was inevitable. Up in that Teutonic corner of Europe has lived a fighting race that has been permanently licked by nobody since the first word of recorded history. Augustus, the greatest of the Caesars, sent Varus up there to do it, and all he got out of it was the worst trimming ever handed a Roman general, and a hairsbreadth escape from destruction of the empire. That ended the Roman attempt at subjugation.



Johnson

"Charlemagne tried it and decimated those early Heinies. They were on his back almost before he could turn around. Frederick the Great lost for them "all save honor,' only to come back as the most threatening military force in Europe. Napoleon trounced them brilliantly, and himself invented a limitation of armaments to keep them down. But out of Prussia came the idea of the 'nation in arms,' or universal conscription—a direct product of Napoleon's own limitations on German arms It drove Bonaparte to Elba and St. Helena. Sixty years later it almost destroyed France. A century later it endangered the whole world.

"I am not approving it. I am only stating a plain record of 2,000 years of human experience. We ourselves helped to prove in blood and treasure that there are no supermen — German or otherwise —but that did not change one of the most obvious facts in human history—that the Germans are a fighting people and that nothing will remove their threat of force save a threat of greater force.

"Just two things have kept the peace of Europe in the past few years—one was the British fleet and the other a potential one hundred French divisions fully equipped. Modern war on land requires a big and efficient modern industry. The Germans have a much better one than the French. Today, I think the French army, with its allies. could march from one end of Europe to the other—but not after the Germans re-arm with modern equipment.

"Fully equipped, they would be a military nation far superior to the French and, on the slightest provocation, or no provocation at all, could bring down on the world a new 1914 or worse.

"This mad move of Hitler's starts catastrophe on its way. From his barbarous persecution of the Jews and his ruthless murder of his political opponents, the world knows that he stops at nothing."

The above was taken from the first column I ever wrote. It was written on March 15, 1935. It is not in any sense a matter of "I told you so."

I do want to stress the fact—as I have stressed it for years—that Hitler's Germany, armed to the teeth, is a ruthless machine for destruction that can only be stopped by destroying it.

This can only be done by a more efficient. more powerful machine. We have the potential power, brains and guts to do it—and we can do it. But we must not make the tragic mistake of under-estimating our enemy.

Everything I have recently said about the difficulties of this job goes double with those little ones of Nippon on our backs.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

You Can't Print That!

A compendium of rules that can't be told with names, because they're too true to print. If you find in them any resemblance to actual persons, living or dead — you're probably guessed right!

SOME years ago, Ladislaus came to this country from Europe to seek his fortune as a movie director. But his first trip to Hollywood ended in a fiasco. The natives couldn't see his genius and things got so bad for him that he had to ride on a "space available" pass on the airlines to get back to New York.

Kilgallen

When he arrived in Manhattan, hope dawned for Ladislaus. A friend set him up in a swanky hotel and gave him a job—not the kind he'd been looking for, but one that paid off. It was a job as 'steer" and "middleman" for a pair of high class bootleggers.

Until repeal came through he did mighty well. And when it was all over he took his money and went back to Europe, where he produced a series of smash hit pictures.

Well, not so long ago Ladislaus came back to the United States, and he was greeted loudly as a genius. And as you might suspect, the chief executive of one of Hollywood's major studios was wild to get him on the payroll.

The exec sent the head of a big talent agency to get the foreign director under contract. And for weeks the talent agents (call them John and Jerome) chased the director high and low. He wouldn't answer their telephone messages. He wouldn't heed their telegrams. He wouldn't talk to them on the telephone.

Finally they climbed the back stairs of his hotel, knocked on the door of his room—and Ladislaus opened the door.

When he saw John and Jerome standing on the threshold, he said: "Look, boys, go away. I'm out of the racket now."

"So are we!" they chimed.

Yes, they were his bootlegging bosses of the old prohibition days.

But you can't print that. Because he's a genius, and his old pals are now respected in Hollywood and in New York as high class business men.

There's scarcely a female in America who doesn't know what Diana looks like — because she's always making the "most beautiful" and "best dressed" lists, and her face and her clothes and her house are always being photographed for the classy magazines.

She has good taste, no question about it, but it takes more than good taste to get into her division. What you need is dough, in big, coarse quantities, because the dressmakers who compile those lists have a queer habit of choosing the women who buy the most, and most expensive clothes.

Diana, fortunately, has a husband who provides the vulgar, but necessary cash. And she not only has a husband, she has a young beau (poor, of course) whom she likes even better.

In fact, she doesn't like to be without him, even if her husband is in the vicinity, too. So she has figured out an excellent system for handling the situation.

She (with the help of the young lad) located a presentable girl from a good but poor family. And Diana pays the girl to go along as the lad's sweetheart. You see them everywhere, in the cafes, in the bars, even down at Diana's for week-ends.

It was practically an ideal solution for a while, but recently something has gone wrong. The "hired" debutante has fallen in love with the lad, too—and threatens to tell Diana's husband if she doesn't give him up!

But you can't print that. It could only bring the whole situation to the boiling point—and deprive cafe society of one of its most titillating whispers!

REPORTS TYPHUS RAGES THROUGH OCCUPIED AREAS

Stockholm Paper Says Epidemic Breaks Out In Poland, Baltic Republics.

(By United Press)

Stockholm newspaper dispatches from Berlin reported today that a severe epidemic of typhus had broken out in German-occupied Poland, White Russia and Baltic republic areas and that all schools in the German-occupied Ukraine had been closed because of epidemics.

The official German news agency, heard by the British radio, reported that several leading members of the Spanish Falangist (Fascist) party who had been serving with the Falangist "volunteers" against the Russians had returned to Spain "in order to fulfill their duty within the party during the winter."

An official Italian news agency dispatch from Budapest reported that "a motorized Hungarian brigade" had returned from the eastern front and had been received enthusiastically at Budapest The dispatch asserted that the brigade "has been replaced by other forces."

Both the German and Italian agencies reported the death in action on the Russian front of Italian General Ugo de Carolis.

Radio Berlin reported anti-American demonstrations in Sobranje Square at Sofia, Bulgaria, yesterday. It said a crowd stormed the United States legation until troops intervened, and then the crowd tried to demonstrate before the Russian legation but was again dispersed.

An Italian agency dispatch said that the Bulgarian government, under a law limiting the activities of Jews in the professions, had decreed that there should be only 36 Jewish lawyers, 59 physicians, seven obstetricians, 17 dentists, five chemists, 10 engineers and two architects in Bulgaria.

Axis sources announced yesterday that "the state of Croatia, formed in a corner of Jugoslavia, had "declared war" on the United States.

BELIEVE TURKS RESIST NAZIS

Washington Quarters Find Neutrality Declaration Hints Axis Snubbing.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — Turkey's declaration of neutrality was greeted here today as indication that the Turks have successfully resisted recent German pressure to line up with the Axis.

Far less comforting, however, was Eire's new assertion that United States' entry into the war does not change the Irish position of friendly neutrality.

The week-end Turkish and Irish developments indicated that both were seeking to continue strong ties with the United States while maintaining their difficult positions as neutrals.

The only other important neutrals in the war arenas are Spain, Portugal, Sweden and Switzerland. Spain's policies are considered dominated by the Axis, and Sweden, because of her geographical position, operates economically, at least, within the Axis orbit.

Portugal's neutrality is precarious and may become more so if there are attempts by the Axis or Allies to establish bases on Portuguese islands in the Atlantic. Switzerland is expected to retain her traditional neutrality.

Turkey's ambassador, Mehmut M. Ertegun, delivered to Secretary of State Cordell Hull yesterday a note asserting that his government has "decided to, extend the neutrality of Turkey to the new conflict which has just broken out."

Eire's new declaration was made at Cork, Ireland, by New York-born Prime Minister Eamon De Valera.

WEST TAKES BLACKOUTS WITHOUT HYSTERIA, EX-MANSFIELDER SAYS

A picture of a blacked out west coast region, of San Quentin prisoners volunteering to do their part, of a schoolboy setting up a one-member company to guard against parachute troops—these and many other interesting facts are contained in a letter received in Mansfield today from Carl E Simon, until four years ago a resident of this city.

Simon, who now lives with his family in Oakland, Cal., sent an informative and colorful account of conditions there during the first "war week" to R. D. Lindsay, managing editor of The News-Journal.

"Needless to say," Simon wrote, "everyone was quite excited during the blackouts and the reports that enemy planes were over the Bay district. However, no one, so far as I could learn, was hysterical. But it did remind me much of some of the severe electrical storms that we have back east—you know how the women run from one window to the other, looking up at the skies, hoping that the next bolt of lightning does not hit the house.

"I am sorry for some of the native Japs out here because they are all taking a terrific beating insofar as the public is concerned. The Japanese stores downtown have closed and the public will not even patronize the Japanese vegetable stands. I don't know what the result will be.

"Everyone seems to be co-operating and doing his part for defense, and of course we are right in the middle of that with land, air and sea forces around us.

"The United States engineers told me yesterday that they needed 100 tons of burlap and the only place they knew to get it was from San Quentin prison (where burlap is manufactured) but learned upon calling that their entire output has already been ordered by the Navy.

"However, the warden called for volunteers among the prisoners to work nights and on Sundays to produce the 100 tons, and they got more than 300 volunteers who were willing to work in the jute mills in order to take care of this particular emergency call This gives you an idea of the cooperating spirit.

"It has its funny sides, too! A 13-year-old schoolboy in the Oakland school, asked the teacher if the Japanese parachute troops should attack, would it be 'o. k.' to shoot them down? She replied that of course that was just what would have to be done, so the next day the boy was absent from the school. They found him down at Lake Merritt (almost in the heart of the city) hiding in the bushes with a 22-rifle, waiting for the parachutists to arrive.

"Practically all able-bodied men between the draft age and 50 have enlisted for some sort of Home Defense service. I have enlisted in the Oakland Defense Council and am going to school for two hours a day to learn the following emergency measures: extinguishing small fires, incendiary bombs and their effect, explosive bombs and their effect, chemical warfare and its effect, equipment and duties of civilian defense wardens, first aid, communication, identification of persons aud property, and public relations."

FARMERS MEET

Hear Plan On Milk Production At Session Tomorrow.

A plan for stepping up milk production in Richland county under the food-for-defense program will be outlined at a meeting at 8 p. m Tuesday in the common pleas courtroom at the courthouse, County Agent George B. Ganyard said today.

C. L. Blackman, extension dairyman at Ohio State university, will speak, telling farmers how to get more dairy products without increasing the number of cattle The session will be open to the public.

Laff-a-Day

"I'd like a synopsis of the sixty-five-cent special!"

The Richland county marriage license bureau had its first Sunday business in a long time yesterday. Probate Judge Stuart H. Cramer was called from his home to issue two licenses, both to soldiers home in furlough. One went to Kenneth M. Sutphin, Fort Knox, Ky., and Miss Thelma Summers of Mansfield, and the other to Merrill W Manz, jr., and Miss Margaret Black, both of Mansfield. Soldiers who submit their physical examination report when they apply for licenses can get the licenses without waiting the usual five days.

One Mansfield family made certain that its garbage bill for the next three months was paid last week. In fact, the family paid it twice. Fred E. Lingafelter, secretary of the garbage department, reported that both the husband and wife made separate telephone calls at the same time, he from his office and she from home. Both arranged to send one of their children to pay the bill. Each sent the money for the garbage bill without the other's knowledge. Lingafelter said that his department was equally bewildered but that the whole matter had been cleared up with a refund to the family.

J B. Moke, superintendent of buildings and grounds for Mansfield schools, believes in carrying the "V" for victory idea to the nth degree. The other day when maintenance men were repairing and testing the bleachers in John Simpson school gymnasium, their pounding could be heard all too clearly in his office, which is right next to the gym. The noise didn't bother him, but he was disturbed over one thing . . He gave instructions that if the workmen had to pound, they must hammer out the code symbol for the letter "V" After a moment's silence, the pounding began again, this time in the three dots and dash fashion, according to his secretary.

ASSERT OPEN OPPOSITION TO INVADERS

Declare Killing of Hundred 'Delinquents' Would Raise Profound Uneasiness.

(By Associated Press)

Coming out openly against an order of the German occupation authorities for the first time since the armistice, France last night condemned a German order for the execution of 100 alleged Jewish Communists and anarchists in occupied France.

The French acknowledged the 100 were "delinquents" instead of hostages such as the Germans have executed in groups this fall but said the very high number provoked "profound uneasiness among Frenchmen."

The Germans said Saturday the 100 would be shot in reprisal for "recent attacks against the occupation troops." They also fined the Jews in the occupied zone 1,000,000,000 francs ($20,000,000).

In partitioned Yugoslavia and Greece, several hundred thousand Axis soldiers were reported tied up with steady and strong resistance by Serbs and Greeks in a small-scale war.

Draja Mihailovic, a colonel in the Yugoslav army before the Germans over-ran his country last spring, has been promoted to the rank of a full general for his "magnificent work" in organizing the Serb resistance, the Yugoslav government in exile said yesterday.

A spokesman for the Greek government-in-exile declared that 24 Axis divisions—about 360,000 soldiers—were tied up by a "vest pocket war" in Greece which is growing despite near starvation of the Greeks and their lack of arms.

Swift raids from Macedonian mountain hideouts were said to be wiping out occupation forces, giving the Greeks some food and equipment.

Pastor Resigns, Says He Cannot Sanction The War

NEW YORK —(INS)— Resignation of John Haynes Holmes as minister of the Community church today was in the hands of the church trustees. He announced he had tendered his resignation yesterday because he could not "bless, sanction or support war."

Holmes, minister of the Community church, a non-denominational organization, for nearly 35 years, is a director of the American Civil Liberties union.

Leading figures in the city's religious life failed to subscribe to Dr. Holmes' pacifist views. With the single exception of Dr. Holmes, ministers throughout the metropolitan area called on their congregations to make every sacrifice in support of the nation's war effort.

In contrast, Bishop Ernest M. Stires condemned Germany and Japan as the slaves of "incarnate evil" and added:

"If this sounds like recruiting, I shall be glad."

GERMAN PRESS FOLLOWS FLAG IN 'NEW ORDER'

Nazi Propagandists Establish 'Zeitungs' In Conquered Countries.

(By Wide World)

BERLIN—The German Press follows the flag. After the army has defeated a country by the might of the sword, Germany's propagandists try to win over the populace with the might of the word.

Lieutenants of Joseph Goebbels have a finger in directing the local press of captured countries, determining what shall be printed, who shall work on the papers and what news can come out of the land

But in every land also they established a fat, substantial German-language "Zeitung" (German for "newspaper.")

The oldtimer among these organs of the new order in Europe is the Krakauer-Zeitung, which has just passed its second birthday. It has Warsaw and Lwow editions appearing as Warschauer Zeitung and Lemberger Zeitung. The latter is the newest addition, which will serve a healthy slice of post-1939 Russian Poland now incorporated into the general government as the province of Galicia.

Officials of the propaganda ministry followed swiftly behind the army in the east, establishing the "Deutsche Zeitung in Ostland" to sell Germandom to the inhabitants of Riga and Latvian areas Already the editor has put out 98 editions.

The most important notices of the civil administration always appear in these papers—for instance, if two eggs are going to be issued on ration cards, the best way for a local citizen to know about it is to keep his eye on the official notice section of such newspapers

In Kaunas, Lithuanians get to read Hitler's speeches and find out they must write requests to the German authorities in the German language, by reading in German the newly-established Kauener Zeitung, which also has offices in Wilna.

But the newspapers of the east are smaller than those of the west Whereas the above-named papers are about the size of a tabloid, the leading German paper of the west —the Pariser Zeitung, printed on the big newspaper presses of the former French capital—is about the size of a normal American metropolitan eight column newspaper.

An interesting about-face in German press policy was noticed after German military might smashed a few nations to the ground. Slowly but clearly, the leading German newspapers began to change from the difficult-to-read German script type to the Latin type used in French, English, Italian and other languages.

Reluctantly, it was admitted officially that an about-face had been ordered all along the line

It is part of the propaganda scheme of the German press to make it easy for foreigners to read the leading German-language newspapers

For one not acquainted with script type, just looking at a page of it is enough to discourage reading. With papers printed in Latin type, a person of normal courage can begin the struggle with the strange language a fact which the German propagandists fully realize.

Dan Cupid Has Banner Year In Navy--Thanks to the Nurses

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Fifteen per cent of the U. S Navy women nurses marry Navy men, a survey reveals, which possibly may account for the overwhelming desire of nurses to be patriotic and enlist.

At the moment there are 750 women nurses in the Navy and the number is being increased at the rate of fifty a month. At the end of the fiscal year, June 1942, the quota will be 1250, and the increase will continue at the same rate of fifty a month.

All nurses must be graduates from duly accredited hospitals. With so many of the girls enlisting to "bathe the fevered brows" of the fleet, it is feared that city and private hospitals may become understaffed themselves as to nurses for the civilian population.

The average age of the nurse on entering the service is twenty-four years. The uniforms are, of course becoming, as are all nurses' attire. The Navy modestly rules that the neckline on all nurses uniforms be two and a half inches from the "intra-clavicular notch."

The girls enlist for three years and may extend their time indefinitely—but what chance has "indefinitely" with the marriage boom being what it is.

Women nurses are not allowed in combat areas Part of the duties of these nurses is to train male nurses who do go into combat areas But women are assigned to the two floating hospitals, "Solace" and "Relief," thirteen nurses on each, and they follow the battleships.

The most eagerly sought after assignment on the part of the women nurses is on hospital ships in which their quarters are the last word in comfort, even luxury. Another grade "A" post is assignment in the trppics.

In some of the foreign posts—Samoa, Guam and Pago Pago (the latter the background of Somerset Maughan's drama "Rain") the women nurses give hospital training to the native women so that in time they may take over. These nursing probationers go barefoot, and it is with considerable difficulty the nurses are able to instill into them that picking up bandages with their toes is not the last word in hygiene.

Tuner-Inner Gets In On Overseas Telephone Station Test

MEMPHIS Tenn —(AP)— A shortwave radio listener here thought he was tuned in on some international intrigue when he heard these words repeated in precise English

'If I claim to explain the weight of a piece of iron, if I say that an orange consists of soft yellow juicy atoms, or if I say that a marshmallow is made of sweet white sticky atoms or a piece of iron is made of hard black shiny, conductive atoms you recognize at once that those are not serious or common series—that they are just futile and somewhat ridiculous statements"

But it wasn't code merely the transatlantic overseas telephone station at Riverhead L I, testing for diction

Sport Podge by REX HESS

IN SPITE of all the wind and rain and the mud and the slush and the snow and the blizzards and the cold and the stuff and high water that kept somewhere between 2,000 and 5,000 football fans away from Stadium field this past autumn, Mansfield high school had a most successful gridiron season at the gate.

For game after game, advance interest indicated the need for more bleachers, and more room in which to put bleachers, but week after week the rain or snow, or both, descended and crowds of four and five thousand turned out where anything up to 8,000 had been anticipated.

The weather cost the high school athletic department something like two to four grand, but so long as a certain share of our citizenry retains some semblance of good sense, there's nothing much that can be done about a situation like that.

But in spite of the bad weather, our Tygers lured $3,187.98 more through the turnstiles at Stadium field than they did in 1940.

Figures prepared by George Sherman, director of ticket sales, show total receipts of $12,068 65 this past fall as compared to $8,880.67 the preceding year.

Net receipts were $11.468.01 compared to $8,338 11 in 1940.

So, aside from the pride and loyalty which it arouses among the populace, it seems a successful football team does have some practical value. And I don't mean character building, or even body building. Although these are undoubtedly the most important results.

So what happens to all this dough?

Well, the high school now owns the lighting plant at Stadium field, lock, stock and barrel, wires and poles and fixtures and bulbs.

The athletic department still owes the school $1,000 which it borrowed for a down payment on the lighting equipment, but the company which sold the plant now has every penny of the sale price.

The football team paid off $2,772.41 on the light plant in 1940, and $5,065.14 in 1941. The football receipts have gone back into the improvement of the athletic plant, a system which, if carried out in future years, should some day give Mansfield the kind of plant which a city of this size should have.

Coach Paul Snyder and the athletic department members are as proud of the economic success of the past season as they are of their undefeated record on the field.

They recall that when the subject of lights was first broached two years ago, they met a great deal of opposition, and were told: "You'll never get 'em paid for. You'll have that debt hanging over your heads for years."

And in two short seasons the lights are paid for.

Including the $1,000 debt to the school on the lights, the athletic department now has a deficit of only $1,715.56, an item that should be erased easily next fall, in spite of the war, and school officials can begin thinking of plans to double, or treble the seating capacity of the present stadium. High school athletics is another place where you don't stand still. You progress, or go backward.

Lantz Takes 1st In Rifle Shoot

Results of the Mansfield Muzzle Loader rifle club shoot held Saturday on the club range showed G. Lantz the winner with a .722 average gained with three first places, one second and two thirds in six matches.

Trailing him were T. Nelson with .555 and P. Hauserman with a .499 average.

In the 50-yard matches, string measure, E. Light took first with 4.08 inches for three shots followed by J. Baldinger, 5.38 inches, and Lantz, 5.91 inches.

BOWLS PERFECT SCORE

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Columbus' second perfect bowling score in three days was collected last night by Ted Pehrson. Cliff Robling bowled a 300 game Friday night. Pehrson's score came as the final game of a 745 series which gave him a tie for the year's three-game honors in Columbus.

Splurge Precedes Cage Lull

Ohio Teams Play 38 Tilts Before Holidays Start.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio's college basketeers offer a 38-game splurge this week before hitting the holiday lull—with 20 of the contests slated against foreign opposition and eight in the Ohio conference.

During the two-week period from next Monday through Jan. 3, only 15 games are scheduled, six of them the Saturday following New York day.

This week the Buck squads invade West Virginia, Indiana, North Carolina and Michigan for 12 games, while eight contests are slated on Ohio floors against teams from Kentucky, Pennsylvania, Indiana; Michigan, Oregon and South Carolina.

Up to date, Ohio teams have won 15 and lost 10 against squads from outside the Buckeye borders.

Toledo, Bowling Green and Wooster are pacing the pack with three victories each, followed by Kenton, Dayton, Xavier, Akron and Ohio State with two in a row. Six other squads have won their lone starts, but 21 of the 35 teams have gone down to defeat with the season hardly under way.

The clean slates are due for at least one jolt this week, as Ohio university invades Mt Union and Akron, all three being unbeaten. Toledo meets Angola (Ind.), Albion (Mich.) and Marietta; Wooster is idle, and Bowling Green tangles with Michigan Normal, giving the Rockets a chance to skip far out front by winning all three starts.

The week's slate:

Monday — Denison at Ohio Northern, Morehead at Wilmington, Rio Grande at Concord, Kent State at Bluffton.

Tuesday: Kent State at Ashland, Kenyon at Heidelberg, Wittenberg at Dayton, Toledo at Angola, Rio Grande at Bluefield.

Wednesday: Denison at Capital, W. & J. at Akron, Hiram at Kent, Hanover at Miami, Rio Grande at High Point, Winhita at Dayton, Oregon at Xavier, Albion at Toledo, Baldwin-Wallace at Detroit Tech.

Thursday: Heidelberg at Ohio Northern, Ohio U. at Mt. Union, Defiance at De Sales, Ohio Wesleyan at Ball State, W. J. at Youngstown, Rio Grande at Guilford, Cincinnati at Marietta, Bowling Green at Michigan Normal.

Friday: Kent State at Baldwin Wallace, Case at Oberlin, Ohio U. at Akron, Ohio Wesleyan at Wabash, Rio Grande at Appalachian, South Carolina at Xavier.

Saturday: Marietta at Toledo, Ohio U. at Youngstown, Wilmington at Cincinnati, Ohio Wesleyan at Evansville, Otterbein at Fenn, and Muskingum at Duquesne.

Graf Named Most Valuable Player

CHICAGO — (AP) — Jack Graf, Ohio State fullback, was announced last night as winner of the award as most valuable football player in the Big Ten this season.

Graf was chosen by his teammates several weeks ago as the most valuable member of the Buckeye squad, and his name and those of players from the eight other competing schools were considered by a group of 21 electors.

Seven of the nine men eligible received at least one second place vote. Graf, Alf Bauman of Northwestern, Billy Hillenbrand of Indiana and Pat Harder of Wisconsin each had more than 10 points, with only four points separating first and fourth place in the tabulation.

MANSFIELD TIRE LOOP MATCH ROLLED

Tire No. 3 scored a 2-1 victory over Maintenance in the Mansfield Tire bowling league at Colony alleys Saturday night. Thieding led the scoring with a 537 total, and Joe Leathers had high game of 199.

In a special match Saturday night a Mansfield Tire team defeated Ashland Fike's Insurance by 221 pins as Keck turned in a 639 and Wolf a 634:

CRIMMINS VICTORIOUS IN ALL-STAR BOWLING

CHICAGO—(INS)—Johnny Crimmins, veteran Detroit bowler, was in line today for a championship match next year with Ned Day, following his victory in the national all-star tournament in Chicago against 70 of the nation's high ranking bowlers.

Crimmins wound up his 55-game assignment in eight days of bowling late last night with a total of 265:09 points. In second place was his Detroit rival, Joe Norris, with 262.33 points.

Bowl Games Hunt Homes

Army Ruling Makes New Year Games Refugees.

SAN FRANCISCO —(AP)— The west's famous New Year's football classics—the Rose Bowl and the east-west games—hunted temporary new homes today as war refugees.

Military expediency demanded blackout of the games. The army was firm. Sponsors agreed to cooperate fully and cancelled all local arrangements.

Then, as Pasadena and San Francisco kissed dreams of thousands of tourist dollars goodbye, officials went to work to find other quarters for the orphaned sports spectacles.

Where the games might be taken was anybody's guess. Percy Locey, director of athletics at Oregon State college, the west's Rose Bowl representative, said he was "receptive to offers" of a place to hold the game, a feature of the annual Pasadena tournament of roses.

And he got them. Officials of Duke university, Oregon State's choice to represent the east, suggested the game be played in Duke stadium at Durham, N. C., Chicago, New York, and Kansas City were mentioned as other possible sites.

There appeared to be plenty of takers for the east-west game, too. Atlanta, Chicago, Spokane and Norman, Okla., home of the University of Oklahoma, all were reported to have been in touch with east-west representatives.

The financial loss incurred could only be estimated. Based on last year's figure, Duke would have received about $100,000 from the tournament of roses association. Oregon State would have taken $57,000 and nine other Pacific coast conference members would have received $7,500 each. The association, owner of the Rose Bowl, would have netted $71,000.

Ohioans Capture Top Alley Honors

SAGINAW, Mich.—(AP)—Rolling 1,253, Medrith Maxton and Alma Miller of Dayton took first place in the doubles as the Women's Central States' Bowling tournament closed here yesterday.

Other leaders included:

Five-man teams, Hoovers, North Canton (333) spot) $2,690.

Doubles: Medrith Maxton-Alma Miller, Dayton, (96) 1,253. Lucille Evans-Iova Miller, Canton (174) 1,212 (fifth).

Singles: Evelyn St. Clair, Youngstown (105) 700.

ELYRIA BOWLERS BEAT GOEBEL BEERS

Elyria keglers rolled a 3,021 total yesterday at Colony alleys to defeat Goebel Beers by 293 pins. Reynolds had 673 for Elyria, Wachsberger 641, and Krugman 626, while Young had 617 for the Mansfield quintet.

NEW YORK—(Wide World)—Looks as if Fordham's football authorities picked up about $75,000 by not waiting for a call from the Rose Bowl...With two New Year's games already off, perhaps the big sports events in January will be bowling instead of bowls The pin busters are going strong on their campaign to pay off all prizes in defense bonds and there's every indication of the biggest season in years...The Cincy Reds sold the last seat for the opening game of their 1942 season last week... What ever became of the old lawn tennis association idea that boys should not be ranked after turning pro because the lists were just to guide amateur tournament directors in seeding players? Anyway, it's a nice ad for Lex Thompson's troupe to have Riggs and Kovacs ranked one-two.

Bears Down Green Bay

Take Western Division Crown; Meet Giants.

CHICAGO—(AP)— The schedule makers of the national football league disappointed followers of the New York Giants in not pitting their favorite team against the champion Chicago Bears, but everything is all right now.

The league's representatives in the nation's two largest cities finished the season's play by winning their respective division titles, automatically placing them as finalists for the championship encounter. The title game will be played next Sunday in Chicago's Wrigley Field.

The Giants knew they were one of the finalists a couple of weeks ago but the Bears only yesterday captured the western section honors by humbling the Green Bay Packers, 33 to 14, in a playoff.

The Giants were among the 43,325 fans at yesterday's third Bear Packer clash.

OHIO GRIDDERS WIN

HATTIESBURG, Miss. —(INS)— Ohio's 37th Division football team held second place in the Fifty Army Corps league today by virtue of a 13-0 victory over the 3nd Division. Steve Polachek, former John Carroll star, took passes from Capt. Ray Novotny for both touchdowns.

'OLD MAN MOSE' BROWN AND OVERLIN MEET

PITTSBURGH—(INS)—"Old Man Mose" Brown, a young fellow who catapulted himself into fistic prominence this past summer, and Ken Overlin, who is somewhat of an old man in the ring himself meet tonight over a 10-round route to see who should get the first shot at Gus Lesnevich's light heavyweight title.

Overlin, an 8-to-5 favorite, whipped Brown, of McKeesport, last winter, but since that time, the sepia dynamiter from Western Pennsylvania has scored three straight K. O.'s.

Williams Hits Best Average

Joins Ranks of Greatest Batters With .406.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Ted Williams, 23-year-old San Diego, Calif., boy who threatened to quit baseball in 1940 and become a fireman, joined the ranks of the greatest hitters of all time last season when he batted an amazing .406 and led the American league by a margin of 47 points, according to the official averages released today.

Williams, who was serving his third year in the Boston Red Sox outfield, became the first American leaguer to exceed .400 since Harry Heilmann hit .403 for Detroit in 1923. Bill Terry of the Giants was the last major leaguer to hit over .400, batting .401 to lead the National league in 1930.

In addition to capturing the batting crown Williams also led in runs scored, with 135, in home runs, with 37, and drew the most bases on balls, with 145.

Cecil Travis, Washington shortstop, was the batting runner-up with an average of .359, good enough to win the crown in many years. Joe DiMaggio, Yankees, the 1939 and 1940 batting champion, came third with .357. Jeff Heath, Cleveland outfielder who added 121 points to his average, was fourth with .340.

Leaders in other departments included:

Doubles—Lou Boudreau, Indians, 45.

Triples—Jeff Heath, Indians, 20.

Runs batted in—Joe DiMaggio, Yankees, 125.

Runs scored — Joe DiMaggio, Yankees, 122.

Nelson Wins Miami Open

Noses Out Hogan, Year's Top Money Winner.

By STANMORE CAWTHON

MIAMI, Fla. — (AP) — Big-time golf's great stretch-runner, Byron Nelson of Toledo, sprinted ahead of Ben Hogan to win first money in the $10,0000 Miami open, but the little Hershey, Pa., star's second place sewed up for him two of the year's most coveted honors.

Even though he took a 72 and blew his three-day lead, Hogan gathered in a $1,250 check that sent his year's tournament winnings to $17,333—more money than any other pro can win this year.

He also received 30 points toward the Vardon trophy—the pro's emblem of year-around tournament excellence — to run his total to a new record of 524. With only two P.G.A.-sponsored tournaments left, the second place golfer, Sam Snead of Hot Springs, Va., did not retain even a mathematical chance of overtaking Hogan.

Nelson burned up the fairways on the last nine and wound up with a brilliant 66 for a 72-hole total of 269, five strokes better than Hogan and six ahead of Slammin' Sammy.

Elated by his second consecutive victory in this tournament, Nelson confessed that he preferred to go into the last round one stroke behind rather than slightly ahead.

"The pressure is on the fellow that's out in front," remarked. "And after all, one stroke is nothing to make up in 18 holes."

Snead has 444 points toward the Vardon trophy, Nelson 407, Craig Wood of Miami Beach 363, and Lloyd Mangrum of Monterey Park, Calif., 234.

Snead has won $12,848, Nelson $11,350, and Wood $9,364.

Yankees Rule Roost In '41

DiMaggio and Williams Share Star Spotlight.

NEW YORK — (NS) — Looking back today over the 1941 baseball season the highlights that come first to mind are:

1. The Yanks.
2. Joe DiMaggio's remarkable feat of hitting safely in 56 consecutive games.
3. Ted Williams' .400 batting average.
4. The great race in the National League.
5. The Dodgers.
6. Mickey Owen's muff of the third strike in a world series game.
7. The utter collapse of the Indians.
8. Hank Greenberg's induction into the army.

Judging by any standard this was one of the best seasons the game ever had. The attendance was all that could be expected and it was particularly amazing in Brooklyn where the Dodgers drew a million in a park seating only 30,000.

The Yanks proved beyond doubt they are the finest club in the game and one that rates at least as high as most of the champions of other years. They won off by themselves in their own league and then proved their superiority by taking four of the five games in the world series.

They were slow to get going because Manager Joe McCarthy had to experiment with his infield. But once straightened away for the long run, they simply romped away from their field. And they did it without the aid of a 20-game pitcher.

This last point led many to believe the Yanks had not top-flight pitching. The fact is, however, they had so many good pitchers they could afford to spread the work and hence had no need to use any one man often enough to win 20 games.

They proved in the world series that they had all the pitching any club needs. As for their hitting, they always have had that. And when a team combines great power, speed and pitching class, as did the Yanks, a championship is the result.

DiMaggio once again proved he is the best player in baseball. Once he started to click on that long hitting streak, the Yanks rose with him and from then on the American league was no contest. Joe hit everybody — left handers and right handers—and he hit successfully two and three times against the best pitchers of every other club. Even the wonderful Bob Feller failed to stop him.

It has been many years since the game has produced a .400 hitter and there never was one who outshone Ted Williams' performance. One point generally overlooked is that Ted didn't have the benefit of the old sacrifice fly rule. If he had been hitting under that old rule he probably would have added at least 30 points to his average.

Close races are the rule rather than the exception in the National league, and so it was not surprising to find the Cardinals and Dodgers battling on even terms down to the wire. The Cardinals' fine young club was hard hit by injuries or there might have been a different story to tell.

* * *

However, luck is part of the game and the Dodgers deserve credit for their great work. They moved into St. Louis late in the season and beat the Cardinals on their home turf and that virtually settled the race.

Whirlaway Races To Glory, Wins Triple Crown In 1941

NEW YORK—(NS)—The 1941 turf season, from the horse-of-the-year standpoint, began with Whirlaway and finished with Alsab.

A recapitulation of performances today shows that these two stars dominated the sport from early Spring to late Fall, when the real run for honors is in full swing.

Whirlaway swept into championship stride with his spectacular victory in the Kentucky Derby, went on to grab the other two gems that made up the Triple Crown—the Preakness and Belmont Stakes—and, before he was through, amassed a money-winning score of $272,386 as a three-year-old. He added 10 other victories to his Triple Crown.

Whirly went to the post 20 times, finishing second five, and third twice.

Adding his 1940 earnings of $77,275 to his three-year-old harvest, Whirlaway came to the New Year only $88,069 short of the world's money-winning high of Charles S. Howard's Seabiscuit. Warren Wright's Calumet Farm aims to shoot with Whirly for the 'Biscuit's laurels in 1942.

Not only did Whirlaway grab the three-year-old and 1941 money-winning titles but, by his exploits, he was chiefly instrumental in bringing his stable up on top as the leading racing establishment of the year. Shortly before the turn of December to January. Calumet's score stood at the fabulous figure of $475,091, garnered mainly through 70 wins of its colorbearers.

Other important cogs in the Calumet cash-register were the two-year-olds Some Chance and Sun Again.

The former grabbed a total of $81,265 in five wins, four seconds and one third out of 23 starts, with the biggest haul of $57,900 coming from the Belmont Futurity.

Sun Again made $45,455 in his seven starts. He won four times, finished third twice and once failed to place. He finished ahead of Some Chance in the Arlington Futurity wherein his share of the purse was $34,655.

Wisbbone, another and lesser Calumet juvenile, finished third in that eight-horse engagement for a clean Calumet one-two-three sweep.

Whirlaway's major setback came in the Arlington Classic where he was beaten by Attention; Narragansett Special, downed by War Relic, and the Jockey Club Gold Cup, where Market Wise tagged him. Whirly finished second in all three. Market Wise, a rags-to-riches three-year-old, developed into probably the leading distance horse of the year and completed his season with $97,715 in earnings, coming from 11 wins, four seconds and six thirds in 26 endeavors.

The two-year-old colt, Alsab, owned by Albert Sabath of Chicago, took undisputed possession of the juvenile crown and was even adjudged by many horsemen the outstanding thoroughbred of the year, despite the fact that Whirlaway's money-winning score was greater.

Alsab, which must be recorded as one of the outstanding bargains in turf history, cost a mere $700 as a yearling and earned $110,600 in his first season of campaigning.

He went to the post 22 times, won 15, second three times and third once. His richest single score came in the Washington Park Futurity where he took down $32,575. Before the end of the Fall season he was hailed probably the outstanding two-year-old since Man o'War.

Pictor and Eight Thirty were most steady in the older division. Eight Thirty, however, was retired early after winning his only two starts. On the basis of this pair of wins, many observers would give the George D. Widener horse the diadem in the handicap ranks, but the majority leans strongly toward Pictor, which hails from W. L. Brann's stable.

Pictor won seven of his 15 starts and was third twice. He gathered in a total of $60,025 winning such races as the Havre de Grace Handicap, Laurel Stakes, Washington Handicap and Riggs Handicap.

Circle M Ranch's Big Pebble, however, was leading money-winner of the veterans, garnering $159,437 chiefly through victories in the Widener Cup, Hollywood Gold Cup and Washington Park Handicap. Pictor vanquished him in the Havre de Grace Handicap, where he finished third, and Washington Handicap—not to be confused with the Washington Park Handicap—where he wound up seventh.

One of the biggest upsets of 1941 occurred in the Santa Anita Handicap where the unfashionable Bay View, owned by Mrs. Anthony Pelleteri, crashed through for a neck decision over Charles S. Howard's Mioland and paid $118.40 in the mutuels. And talking about big payoffs brings out Meadow Money's $652.40 at Lincoln Fields, Ill., as the 1941 tops.

Jockey Don Meade was holding on to a comfortable leadership for riding honors over Johnny Adams and Conn McCreary. The latter was the year's new-found sensation but, despite his clever handling, could not catch the two leaders.

LOOKS TO RECONSTRUCTION

Track Stars Had Big Year

Many Records Smashed By U. S. Scanty-Clads.

NEW YORK — (NS) — Never in the history of track and field championships has the United States produced so many marvelous athletes, or so many record smashing performances as were on tap in 1941.

Whirling over the tanbark indoors or tearing up the cinders and turf outdoors, the boys simply outdid themselves in almost every event on the track and field programs, a check of performances disclosed today.

Where there were so many good ones it would be unfair to attempt to single anyone out for special mention. However, looking back over numberless sterling performances, the work of Grover Klemmer, Les Steers and Bill Stewart, Greg Rice, Cornelius Warmerdam, Al Blozis, Fred Wolcott, Bill Brown, Archie Harris, Bob Peoples and Les MacMitchell seemed to stand out.

MacMitchell definitely established himself as the greatest miler in the world and no comment on his work is needed other than to point out that he made a grand slam by winning the I. C. 4-A, N. C. A. A. and AAU titles. And, of course, as everybody knows, he never lost a cross-country race in his life.

Warmerdam proved himself the greatest pole vaulter the world has ever seen by setting up a new world record of 15 ft. 5¾ in. And big Al Blozis outclassed everybody as a shot putter. Whenever Blozis competes in the shot put, the only question to be answered is: will he break the record?

Peoples hung up a new American record by tossing the javelin 234-3½ and Harris set a new world record with the discus at 174-8¾. Those records speak for themselves.

Greg Rice, of course, is the king of the two milers, but he also took the 5,000-meter title with ridiculous ease and in winning he set a new American record for 2¾ miles when he was clocked in 13:18.3 at that point.

Les Steers and Bill Stewart both cleared 6 ft. 9¾ in the high jump at the nationals but this remarkable performance only goes down in the books as a meet record because Steers had already cleared the bar at 6 ft. 11 in. for a new world record.

Bill Brown, the youthful performer from L. S. U. set a new American standard for the hop-step and jump by covering 50 ft. 11½ in. and Fred Wolcott of Rice Institute again proved himself the finest hurdler in the world today by equaling the world record for 110 meters which he covered in 13.7.

Probably the finest performance of all and the one which stressed most the general class of the performers was the 400 meter run at the nationals which produced a new world record by 20-year-old Grover Klemmer of California University.

In this race six runners actually covered the route under 47 seconds! The fourth man was clocked in 46.4; the second and third men in 46.1 and Klemmer, the winner, in an incredible 46 seconds flat.

* * *

These are but a sample of the hundreds of fine performances turned in all year and, according to Ferris, they are merely a forecast of better things to come.

THEATERS

Jazz Era.

The musical hits in "Birth of the Blues," showing at the Ohio are sure fire for they've all been tested by time. No less than 15 hits are introduced in this Bing Crosby film that covers a colorful era of American jazz music, the days when New Orleans and Memphis gave birth to a music new to the white world but old to the southern darkies who first originated it. Mary Martin sings some of the numbers and Jack Teagarden and his orchestra is heard in the others. New Orleans furnishes the locale for the picture that boasts Brian Donlevy, "Rochester" of Jack Benny's program, and little Carolyn Lee.

Dramatic Situations.

Dramatic situations occur in Irene Dunne's comedy romance, "Unfinished Business," showing at the Madison, when, in her role as the wife of one man, the star discovers that she really should have married his brother. Robert Montgomery as the husband, and Preston Foster as the brother, top a cast that includes Eugene Pallette and Walter Catlett. A young radio singer turns tourist guide in "Moonlight in Hawaii," the second picture, with the Merry Macs, Eve Arden and Mischa Auer.

Unusual Theme.

"Meet John Doe," Gary Cooper's picture, is showing at the Ritz. Barbara Stanwyck is featured. Joan Crawford and Robert Taylor have the leads in "When Ladies Meet," the co-attraction, with Greer Carson and Herbert Marshall.

Duplicate City.

Scenes of Los Angeles as the city appeared in 1820 were reconstructed on the studio lot for the filming of "The Mark of Zorro," Tyrone Power's starring vehicle at the Park. Laid in the day when California was young the picture presents Power as a swashbuckling bandit whose sword-mark "Z" struck terror wherever it appeared. Linda Darnell plays the senorita who sees behind the night-raider's mask. Others in the cast are Basil Rathbone and Gale Sondergaard. "San Antonio Rose," with the Merry Macs, Shemp Howard and Lon Chaney, jr., is the second picture.

Racketeer Story.

Depicting the activities of big town racketeers who attempt to take over the city by means of a phoney election, "Paper Bullets," showing at the Majestic, features Joan Woodbury, Jack LaRue and Linda Ware. Miss Woodbury appears as the queen of the ring who finds it is not so easy to abdicate when the going gets hot. "Emergency Landing," with Carol Hughes, Forest Tucker and Evelyn Brent is the second picture.

Sees World In Fourth Period of World Revolution

BERKELEY, Calif.—(INS)—The world is in a fourth great period of world revolution, a period comparable to the Dawn of History, the breakdown of the Roman Empire, or the collapse of the Medieval system.

This is the statement of Dr. Harry Elmer Barnes, formerly professor of History at Columbia university now teaching at the University of California.

"In our day the reason for the change is that we have allowed our science and machinery to get too far ahead of our social institutions," Dr. Barnes said. "The resulting inefficiency of the institutions has led to disintegration and chaos.

"We must bridge the gulf between science and our social institutions by democratic, non-violent methods, as Sweden did, or by violent revolutionary methods as in the totalitarian countries.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE—Leg Man. By Harold Gray

DR. ZEE HASN'T BEEN AROUND THIS MORNING, NELLIE- HAS HE GONE AWAY?
NO, ANNIE-- HE'S STILL ASLEEP-
ASLEEP? BUT IT'S NEARLY NOON-- DID HE HAVE A CASE THAT KEPT HIM UP LATE LAST NIGHT?
NO--DOCTOR DOESN'T HAVE ANY CASES--HE WENT FOR A WALK--- HE DIDN'T COME IN TILL AFTER FIVE THIS MORNING-
FOR A WALK! ALL NIGHT? BUT IT WAS SLEETING!
I DOUBT IF DOCTOR NOTICED---WHEN HE WALKS, HE WALKS-- WHEN HE COMES HOME, HE SLEEPS- HE'S NOT A WELL MAN, ANNIE--- HE THINKS!
HE "THINKS"? IS THAT BAD? WHAT DOES HE THINK ABOUT?
I DON'T KNOW--- HE JUST SITS AND STARES; OR HE PACES UP AND DOWN, WHICH IS WORSE--- THEN HE GOES FOR A WALK----TILL HE'S DEAD TIRED!

NEED $100? HERE'S WHAT TO DO

Tell us how much you need, $20 to $500; how much you can repay monthly; and answer a few simple questions.

Loans made three ways: (1) on signature; (2) on car; (3) on furniture. No endorsers. Friends or relatives are not told. Fair treatment in case of sickness or unemployment. Payments include charges of 2% monthly on balances of $300 or less and ½% monthly on any remainder—the same rate to everyone. Nothing else to pay. To apply—phone, write or visit office. Money ready next day—or sooner if necessary.

WANT STATUE

TACOMA, Wash.—(U.P.)—A life-size statue of George Washington, the western counterpart of the Statue of Liberty, has been proposed for the entrance to the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

The Tacoma Public Forum suggested that such a statue would signify the "dawning era of the Pacific," as well as "a revived appreciation of the worth and need of liberty."

U. S. exported about 44 per cent of its cotton and 37 per cent of its tobacco crop before the current war in Europe.

MODEST PLUS SIGNS SHOWN BY MART LIST

Westinghouse Among Group of Better Performers In Day's Trading.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Modest plus signs were sprinkled over the stock market today as Wall Street interpreted war bulletins as faintly optimistic.

Better performers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Union Carbide, American Smelting, Phelps Dodge. American Telephone, Sears Roebuck and United Aircraft.

Backward were Chrysler, General Motors, Goodrich, Eastman Kodak and Standard Oil (N.J.)

Market analysts studied the survey of the magazine "Steel" which said that "pending completion of enlarged production facilities the only means by which more steel can be obtained for war use is limiting or cutting off supply to channels not connected with the main object."

Meanwhile the New York produce exchange suspended cottonseed oil and soy bean oil futures trading today "until further notice.

Trading was permissible for 15 minutes Saturday at prices arbitrarily fixed a cent a pound under the previous close, to bring them nearly into line with office of price administration ceilings set for all fats and oils except butter. There were no transactions.

Surviving are her husband, Clifford; three sons, Clifford, jr., Barry, and Richard Speaks, a son by a former marriage; a daughter, Sandra; her father, John Hawkins, Fredericktown; two sisters, Mrs. Worth Cook, Fredericktown, and Mrs. William McCreary, Cambridge, and three brothers, Clyde, Hobart and Percy, all of Fredericktown.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday at the Cook residence here. Rev. G. O. Brown, pastor of the Presbyterian church will officiate. Burial will be in Forest cemetery.

GETS RESULTS

City's Fight on Diphtheria Shows Drop In Cases.

Richland county's fight against a diphtheria epidemic which threatened to break out within the past month was believed today to be gaining headway.

Dr. William B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, reported that no cases had been reported in more than a week and that a total of only 20 positive cases had been found in the county.

The 20 cases came within two or three weeks, however, giving rise to the fear that an epidemic was on its way. Quick action by the health department and city and county doctors checked the disease before it became widespread.

Dr. Wild also reported that the county's third tularemia case of the 1941 hunting season had been reported to his office. One case was reported shortly after the season opened last month while the second was discovered last week.

BLAST STRIKES CHEMICAL PLANT

Kills One, Injures 40; Many Frightened Fearing Air Raid.

EDGEWATER, N. J.—(AP)—An explosion that took one life and frightened thousands as its reverberations caused many in the New York metropolitan area to envision an air raid was under investigation today by the navy, the federal bureau of investigation and local authorities.

The blast tore apart the chemical plant of Spencer Kellogg and Sons yesterday, blew an employe to bits, injured about 40 others, none seriously, and shattered windows in some 100 Palisades homes.

Police Chief Frank Joret said he believed it was accidental.

Report Diplomats, Newsmen Entrain For Return To America.

LONDON — (INS) — A Reuters (British) dispatch from Stockholm said today that American diplomatic officials and news correspondents in Germany entrained today from Berlin for Bad Neutseim, where they remain until Germany embassy officials and newspapermen in the United States begin their trip to Germany.

The exchange of the two groups probably will be carried out on the French-Spanish frontier, the report said.

Chinese Take Over Stores Vacated By Jabs.

MANILA —(AP)— A few enterprising Chinese, driven out of business by Japanese competition some years ago, took advantage of the war situation today and rented the stores just vacated by interned Japanese along downtown Rizal avenue.

The stores bore large signs: "This store is Chinese."

go to the same home there is likelihood that some other family is being deprived. The Community Fund requests that individuals or organizations desiring to sponsor a family clear through the Fund office before sending out a basket. The telephone number is 3599-6.

The News-Journal today continues publishing case histories of needy families so that Mansfield residents who desire to aid the less fortunate can choose for themselves the families to whom they wish to Give-a-Christmas.

CASE NO. 10

Man and woman and one boy. Both parents are unemployables and the son is in the hospital, unable to work or aid parents. If they have any Christmas at all it must be supplied by some person in more fortunate circumstance.

CASE NO. 11

Man never recovered from accident and is losing his sight and hearing. Has always worked when able. Cannot work now and blind pension has not yet been allowed by state welfare department. There are four small children who are already weighted down by the family misfortunes. An exceptionally worthy case and "all out" aid is needed.

CASE NO. 12

A small pension of $48 a month is the sole income of this family of five. The father is a semi-invalid and unable to work. There are three children, ages 15, 13 and 7. Unless someone shares a Christmas with them the holiday will be just Dec. 25 to them.

CASE NO. 13

Man and wife and six small children living in a two-room house which the man built himself. He worked for all of the material after paying for the lot by doing odd jobs. Has been on relief a lot in the past ten years but the father is always eager for work and will do anything.

CASE NO. 14

Selective Service took this family's only means of support when an older son went into military training. The family is now on relief. There are two adults and three school-age children. Live under very bad conditions. Anything would help this family but a well supplied Christmas basket is important.

CASE NO. 15

Mother and son. The woman, a higher type, is employed in an industrial plant but her income is just enough to provide a small apartment for herself and her son, a school boy. Right now she is worrying about her son's Christmas.

CASE NO. 16

Middle-aged parents and six children, three grown and three school age, all living at home. One son has part time work, the other does odd jobs. Father on WPA when there is work but he is not working at present. Few clothes and insufficient food.

ACCIDENTS KILL 18 IN OHIO; TWO HURT NEAR CITY

Willard Youth Near Death After Car Leaves Road And Hits Pole.

Two serious accidents were reported in the Mansfield area over a week-end in which at least 18 Ohioans met death in traffic accidents on highways made slippery by snow and sleet.

Raymond Riddle, 18, Willard, is in Willard Municipal hospital in a critical condition with injuries suffered when his automobile left state route 4 late Saturday and crashed into a utility pole.

Hospital attendants said that he was not expected to live. The youth, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Riddle of Willard, received a fractured jaw and fractured pelvis in the crash. He was employed in a Willard clothing store and was on the way to Bellevue to get some merchandise.

John Weber, 25, of 335 Fifth avenue, escaped serious injury in the other area accident. His automobile skidded off U. S. route 42 at the top of Ashland hill, crashed through a billboard and stopped in a field 100 yards down the side of the hill. He was treated for chest and shoulder injuries at General hospital.

Another accident was reported in the city but no one was injured. Vernon Dixon, 151 West Third street, was arrested on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol after his car had collided with another operated by Roy C. Bixel, Willoughby, at Fourth and Mulberry streets.

Dixon was fined $275 and costs when arraigned in municipal court this morning. Judge Kalbfleisch also revoked his driver's license for a year but suspended $200 of the fine pending Dixon's payment of damages to Bixel's auto.

Icy highways were held responsible for most of the deaths occurring in the state over the week-end. Those killed were:

William M. Bates, 26, of Newcomerstown, auto-truck collision.

Portsmouth—Donald J. Stuckert, 38, of Bucyrus, truck overturned.

Lancaster—Pearl E. Buehrler, 21, auto collision.

Newark—Theodore B. Ormanae, 24, of Blaine, O., head-on auto collision; Earl Guy Richards, 58, of Hebron.

Akron—Kenneth Gray, 20, car struck utility pole.

Zanesville—Mrs. Ella May Love, 68, automobile crash.

Canton—Mrs. Marie Thornton, 29, auto accident.

Cleveland — Matthew Fuduric, 31, auto-street car collision.

Warren—Steve Durda, 39, when struck by skidding auto.

Hamilton — Miss Mary Campbell, 25, in head-on collision.

Galena—Roscoe W. Wallace, 43, when auto struck tree.

Wadsworth — Miss Jessie M. Plum, 79, struck by an auto.

Bellevue — Robert Herbel, 18, when auto crashed into tree.

North Canton — Austin Bealer, 44, when auto struck tree.

Massillon—Frank Whitmire, 39, when car hit a utility pole.

Dayton—Clem C. Heaton, 69, of shock after auto struck telephone pole.

Washington C. H.—Thomas McDonald, 85, of injuries in auto collision.

Rifle Juke Box — Harry Casad, proprietor of the Long Bar on North Park street, reported to police yesterday that $8, in change had been stolen from an electrical music box in the tavern sometime early Sunday morning. Police said that entry was evidently made by someone having a pass key because there was no evidence of any burglary.

Motorist Arrested — Sebastian Lupica, Cleveland, posted bond of $16.30 and waived appearance in municipal court yesterday after having been arrested by Mansfield police on a speeding charge. Police claimed that Lupica drove more than 50 miles an hour on Park avenue east.

tirely apart from the contributions obtained through Roll Call. In a communication to the county Red Cross chapter, Norman H. Davis, national chairman, makes it clear that the current drive is waged "to meet the primary and fundamental Red Cross responsibilities to the American armed forces."

"It is not possible to foresee all of the emergencies which will inevitably develop as the war continues, both at home and abroad," said Davis in his letter, "but the American Red Cross, will, in its discretion, utilize these funds to deal adequately with all such situations as fall within the scope of its activities in a manner consistent with the principles and traditions of the Red Cross."

Delegation of the task of handling the drive to the fund-raising and public information committee marks the first time that a unit functioning under the recently re-organized Disaster Preparedness and Relief committee has been called into service. The committee includes W. J. Spreng as chairman; Rev. D. N. Roller, vice chairman and public information chairman; Mrs. George L. Draffan, Esther Smith, Charles H. Hughes and Joy Herbert.

The remaining committees, ready for action in an emergency, and their chairmen follow: survey, Louis J. Ott, chairman; rescue, Bernard C. Hardy; medical aid, Dr. L. Adams; shelter, W. L. Miller; food, Paul E. Sturges, with Roy Dickson in charge of canteens; clothing, John W. Cook; transportation, R. D. Iden; communication, Floyd Dent; registration and information, Mrs. L. J. Ott, and purchasing agent, Avery C. Hand.

Meetings Scheduled — Hermit club will meet at 6:30 p. m., and Eta Iota Upsilon Hi-Y club and Y. M. C. A. Junior Rifle club at 7 p. m. today in the Y. M. C. A., according to Donald Cram, physical director.

Because the ranks of the U. S. Marines have expanded so rapidly, only khaki for summer wear and forestry green for winter are worn by most of the sea soldiers.
